Sodium-vapor lights money saver: study

by BETTY LEE

Sodium-vapor street lights have little negative effects and should be installed in Buffalo Grove, which would save the municipality thousands of dollars per year, a recent village study recommends.

The study was submitted to village officials last week by Public Works Director Charles McCoy. Before making a decision on the lights, officals plan to use the information in a workshop session to be scheduled.

McCoy said several authorities were consulted in preparing the study in light of the controversy on sodium-vapor lights. Opponents of the lights say they are harmful to trees and plant life, that they are unattractive and produce too much light.

The public works director countered the arguments by saying the sodium-vapor lights would be installed in a manner to best illuminate the streets and not the buildings, and said insects are more attracted to the mercury lamps and are repelled by orange-tinted lamps, much like the yellow bug lamps sold in stores.

McCOY SAID sensational reporting on the findings of a study to determine if sodium-vapor lights are harmful to trees caused panic among environmentalists.

A four-month research project on the affects of different light sources on 22 species of plant life produced no evidence that sodium-vapor light harms trees, the report said.

The public works department has been experimenting with the sodium lamp at four intersections since last April. Lamps were installed at Bernard Drive and Weidner Road; Checker Drive and Ill. Rte. 83; Checker Drive and Essington Lane and Plum Grove Circle and Arlington Heights Road.

The lights were donated for a trial basis by Quality Outdoor Lighting, Northbrook.

The McCoy report recommends that high pressure sodium lamps with cutoff-type fixtures be installed to provide increased illumination on streets and parkway areas.

TO DO THIS, the study recommends intersection lighting with intermediate lights necessary to provide uniform illumination between 300 to 400 feet be installed in minor residential streets with low traffic volume.

Secondary and primary residential streets with higher traffic volume would receive lights along the entire length of a roadway.

Lighting fixtures, each consisting of a 10-watt sodium-vapor bulb held by a concrete pole and aluminum arm should provide sufficient illumination, the report said.

The village has 158 mercury-vapor lamps, which would cost $28,440 to be replaced with sodium-vapor fixtures.

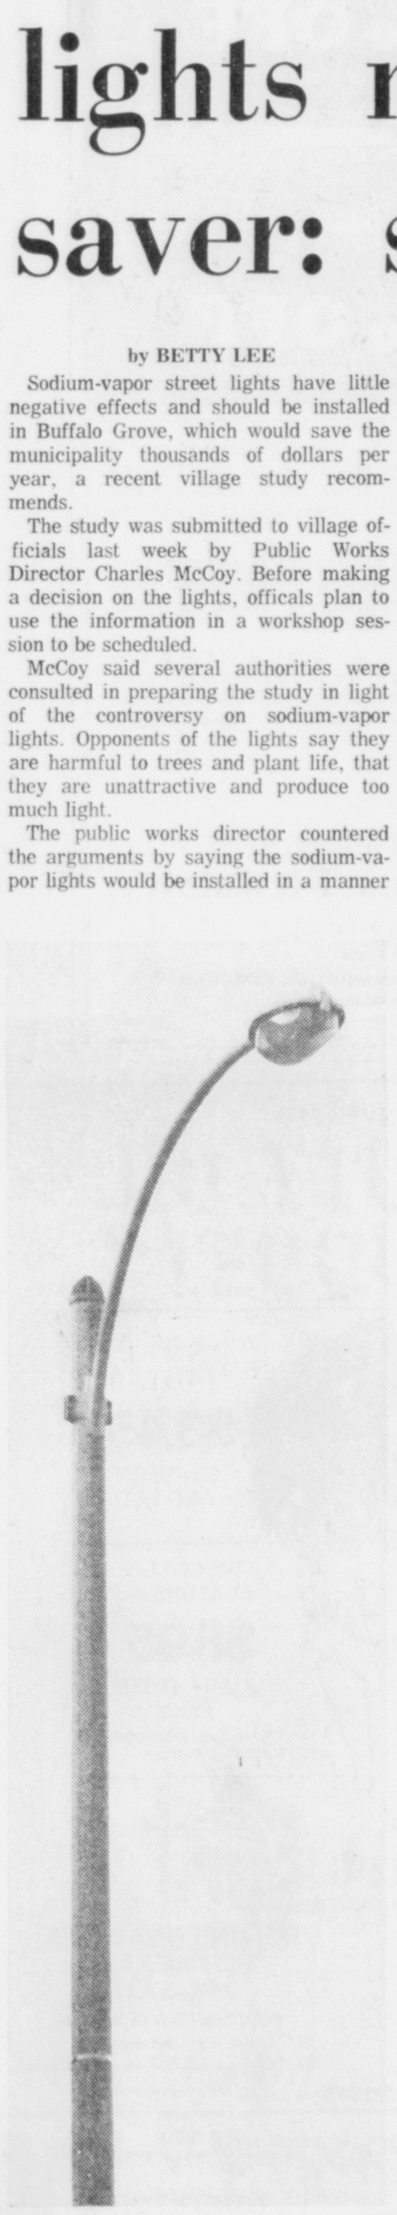

The village, however, could save more than $1,300 on the fixtures per year in energy costs, the report said, estimating a savings of $8.60 a year for every new streetlight installed in new subdivisions.

Additional savings could be made by replacing 107 lights rented from the Commonwealth Edison Co. "Not only would we eliminate the ugly wooden poles with their overhead wiring, but we would save approximately $68 per light or $7,276 per year," McCoy said in the report.

AN ESTIMATED $90,000 in installation costs for the new sodium-vapor lights expected during an eight-or nine-year period. The savings would be realized in energy and rental savings during the next 10 years, the report said.

The report also said changing from mercury-vapor lighting to sodium-vapor lighting is one of the recommended methods for governments to save energy, by the Federal Energy Office.

Greater illumination by sodium-vapor lights will help to improve traffic safety, McCoy said. The report said 30 per cent of the nation's driving is done between 6 p.m. and 2 a.m. but more than 60 per cent of the traffic fatalities occur in this period.

Lease offer to be considered

Special-education classes for Gregory?

by JILL BETTNER

The Mount Prospect Dist. 57 Board of Education probably will accept an offer from he Northwest Education Cooperative to lease Gregory School for the Dwyer School program for emotionally disturbed children.

The school board met in a special session Saturday to consider a proposal from NEC to lease the building at 400 E. Gregory St., Mount Prospect, beginning July 1 for three years with an option to renew the aggreement.

The NEC proposal is the only full-time rental offer the school board has received since deciding last month to close Gregory School because of decining district enrollment and a large anticipated financial deficit.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT Park District has expressed an interest in renting space in the school for some programs, but does not want to lease the entire building year round.

The NEC governing board proposes to lease Gregory School at an annual rent of $75,000 to operate the Dwyer elementary program, now at the Dwyer School, Arlington Heights, and also the Dwyer Junior High School program at Hoffman Estates High School.

The Dwyer program has about 120 students and NEC officials have said the elementary school program has outgrown the eight-classroom Dwyer School building. High School Dist. 211 also is ending the agreement with NEC for use of Hoffman Estates High School next year.

The school board agreed to draft a lease for the consideration of the NEC board that is expected to be prepared within the next week.

Some members of the school board expressed reservatons about signing a lease with NEC because of the possible restructuring of the organization.

A CONSULTANT hired by NEC has suggested some changes in the cooperative, although the NEC governing board has not yet decided whether to follow the recommendatons.

"The only problem I see is if NEC is going out of business that we make sure the party we sign with has legal authority," said William Holloway, Dist. 57 board president.

Although the Dist. 57 school board is proceeding with negotiations with NEC for the rental of Gregory School, the board indicated that if additional proposals are submitted by other educational, community or commercial organizations, they will be considered.

Parks OK easement for Lake-Cook Rd.

Buffalo Grove park commissioners tentatively have agreed to let the County Highway Dept. use part of the park district's property to improve Lake-Cook Road.

Park officials have given maps and plans to their attorney and final approval is contingent upon the attorney's recommendation.

Commissioners previously hedged on granting the easement because they feared the project would adversely affect the use of a baseball area at Emmerich Park.

The easement cuts into the right field area of the baseball diamond and commissioners said they were concerned that player may injure themselvs on road-construction equipment. The county highway department wants to use the property to store construction equipment and vehicles.

Stanley Crosland, park director, said the county assured the district that it would store the vehicles at "some safe distance." The county also agreed to install a snow fence around the area.

The county cannot start the road project in the area until the park district signs an agreement to relinquish a 350-foot strip of park property for right-of-way.

The agreement also calls for the park district to grant construction permits for building bridges and realignment of Buffalo Creek on the property by the park district.

In return, permanent fences at Emmerich Park will be put up parallel to the road.

Village, Arlington keep swim-pass deal

Buffalo Grove and Arlington Heights park districts have entered a reciprocal swimming pass agreement for the second year.

Passes will be honored at pools of both districts without additional nonresidents' fees because some residents find it more convenient to use facilities closest to them, although they are in another community.

ERA fight enters Round 4 in Illinois Senate

The fight over ratification of the controversial Equal Rights Amendment shifts to the Illinois Senate Tuesday, and ERA supporters are saying this may be the year.

ERA backers and opponents are also ready for public hearings by the North Carolina legislature slated for Tuesday and again next week, with a ratification vote expected in the spring.

ERA has been ratified by 34 states. Four more are needed to make the proposal part of the Constitution. Only one state has ratified the measure so far this year, and both Illinois and North Carolina are considered crucial.

Illinois Senate leaders planned to put the proposal to its fourth Senate vote in four years. This time ERA backers are armed with a recent favorable court ruling and a crop of freshman lawmakers who favor the amendment.

THE PROPOSAL has been voted on six times in the Illinois General Assembly since 1972. Despite consistently drawing a majority of votes in both houses, ratification has been blocked by leadership rulings that the measure requires three-fifths support.

In 1973, both the speaker of the House and the Senate president, at that time both Republicans, ruled that the Illinois Constitution requires a three-fifth majority to ratify amendments.

That year, 95 House members opted for the ERA — six more than a majority but 10 less than the three-fifths required. The proposal never made it out of a Senate committee in 1973.

Last year, the tables turned and the Senate gave the ERA 30 votes — exactly a majority. But it was declared defeated and the House never voted on it.

ERA supporters took the matter to federal court seeking to have the three-fifths rule struck down and the 1974 vote declared sufficient for ratification.

LAST WEEK, a three-judge federal panel ruled that the Illinois General Assembly is not bound by the three-fifths rule of the state constitution and that it is up to the lawmakers to set their own majority requirements.

ERA supporters called the ruling a "great victory." The new Senate president, Cecil Partee, D-Chicago, is expected to rule it takes only a majority vote, and Sen. Esther Saperstein, D-Chicago, the Senate leader of pro-ERA forces, says with Democrats now in control of the upper chamber, it will clear the Senate with votes to spare.

ERA backers are more hesitant to predict easy passage in the House. It is uncertain whether Speaker William Redmond, an ERA opponent, will relax the three-fifths rule. The answer to that question may decide the fate of ERA in Illinois.

In North Carolina, proponents of ERA will appear before a legislative committee Tuesday, with opponents scheduled for March 11. The committee will then dig into state laws to determine which of them might be affected by ERA. House and Senate votes aren't expected for at least several week.

Voters OK total park referendum

Arlington Heights voters upset predictions that taxpayers are in no mood this year to increase property bills and passed all three parts of a park district referendum Saturday. The voters, who turned out in near record numbers of more than 5,000, approved a tax hike of $11.19 on an average, $45,000 home. The new tax money will be used by the park district for recreation programs, maintenance of park property and construction of a garage.

Leasing of Gregory seen

Mount Prospect Dist. 57 will probably accept an offer to lease Gregory School in the village to the Northwest Education Cooperative for use by emotionally disturbed children. The cooperative decided in a meeting Saturday to lease the building at 400 E. Gregory St. beginning July 1 at an annual rent of $75,000. The school, which the school board will abandon because of declining enrollments, will house the program now conducted for emotionally disturbed children at Dwyer School in Arlington Heights.

Hospital building to start soon

An official for American Medicorp. predicted that construction of the Community Hospital of Hoffman Estates will begin before July 1. The 312-bed hospital, planned on a 23-acre site at Higgins and Barrington roads, has received all the necessary approvals, the spokesman said.

The sudden withdrawal of a branch hospital planned by Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center last week will have "no effect" on the Hoffman Estates hospital plans.

Sodium-vapor lights for suburb?

Those bright and sometimes controversial sodium vapor lights may be coming to Buffalo Grove next. Village Public Works director Charles McCoy submitted a report saying the new lights have little negative effect and should be installed, saving the town thousands of dollars a year. As yet, no decision has been made regarding the lights. In other communities the bright lights have been blamed for causing ill effects to plantlife, although many municipalities have adopted the fixtures.

Welfare crunch continues

Suburban welfare cases continue to increase, causing two more local units of government to stretch their dollars for general assistance. Schaumburg Township has proposed doubling its general assistance budget for the next fiscal year from $75,000 to $149,000. Similarly, a dramatic increase in the number of Rolling Meadows families requiring assistance may stretch the city's welfare budget to its limit before the end of April. Three or four new families a week are seeking financial help in Rolling Meadows. Part of the problem, welfare director Eugene O'Sullivan said, is the lag of county and state welfare agencies which often takes more than a month to process assistance applications.

'Better communication' needed

The biggest need of the Mount Prospect Police Dept.? Better communication between supervisory personnel and patrolmen. That's the conclusion of a recent study of the department by seven policemen enrolled in Northwestern University's Traffic Institute. Chief Ralph J. Doney said he believed the report was "very fair" and "very objective." "I think from this report I, myself, as well as the men and the public will benefit."

Motive remains a mystery in FAA shootings

The man who allegedly shot two of his coworkers inthe Federal Aviation Administration's Des Plaines office Friday apparently remains the only person who knows why he pulled the trigger.

Neither authorities nor persons interviewed by The Herald Sunday could offer any solid information for the bizarre shooting spree that left one man dead, Jay C. Sheridan of Carpentersville, and another wounded.

Ulysses Toatley, 57, of Bloomingdale, faces murder and attempted-murder charges.

The wife of the man who survived the incident, Colby Moody Jr., of 125 Crest Ave., Elk Grove Village, said Sunday that she has only been able to get "bits and pieces of information" from her husband.

"They had been talking about routine office business, just time and attendance sheets," Marcia Moody said.

"There was no argument," Mrs. Moody said. She added that neither her husband nor any of his coworkers to whom she had talked during the weekend could explain what prompted the shooting.

She said her husband is improving from the gunshot wounds he had suffered. A spokesman for Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines said Moody was reported in good condition and has been moved from the intensive-care unit.

TOATLEY HAD refused to make any statement to police about the incident. He is being held without bond at County Jail. A preliminary hearing on the charges has been set for 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the Des Plaines branch of the County Circuit Court.

Des Plaines police said Sunday they had no new information on the shooting, which took place before about 15 persons at the FAA's midwest regional office, 2300 E. Devon Ave.

All three men worked as inspectors for the FAA. Toatley, who is retired from the Air Force, checked the mechanical condition of aircraft, while Sheridan and Moody were involved wtiht eh evaluation of flight crews.

Walker's school budget unveiled

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (UPI) — Gov. Daniel Walker called Sunday for a $1.6 billion appropriation for elementary and secondary education in Illinois including a $220 million increase in direct state aid to public schools.

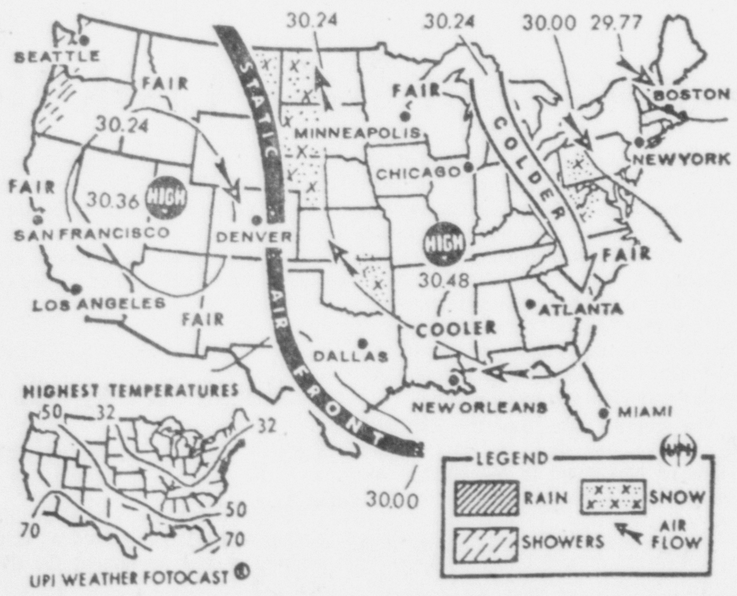

Walker, in unveiling his education budget for fiscal 1976, said he will ask lawmakers to "fully fund the state school aid formula" for the third consecutive year. He said he will also ask for an additional $40 million to meet this year's education costs — boosting this year's total education appropriation to $1.466 billion.

Under his proposal, which Walker said matches the Illinois Board of Education's recommendations, the state's share of education cost would be 47 per cent — higher than it's ever been and about equal to the share paid from local property taxes.

As a result, Walker said, some local real estate taxes may be rolled back.

"Every dollar provided by the state to each school district is one less dollar of burden on local real estate taxes," Walker said. "Without these increases, either taxes would have increased sharply, or education programs would have been cut sharply. . .or both."

Kidnaped workers released unharmed

Saboteurs destroy sponge factory

SHELTON, Conn. (UPI) — Three workers kidnaped by three men who claimed responsibility for destroying a sponge rubber factory here in a Saturday night fire were released unharmed early Sunday.

An FBI spokesman said one of the three kidnapers told the three workers they were from an underground revolutionary group, (Weather Underground) but the spokesman expressed doubt about the claim and said, "We just don't know."

The guards, handcuffed and blindfolded, were released unharmed in a wooded area nearby after the explosion. Physical damage to the plant was estimated at between $6 million and $10 million.

The explosion spells economic disaster for the plant's 800 employes and for the community of 28,000 persons.

"It's a major economic blow," Mayor Francis Kelley said, adding that Sponge Rubber Products was the town's largest employer. It makes products for the auto and furniture industries.

An all-points bulletin was issued for three white males, believed driving an Avis rental truck, who were sought as witnesses, not suspects, police said.

Commenting on any possible involvement of revolutionaries, state police spokesman Adam Berluti said it stemmed from a remark one of the kidnapers reportedly made.

"At this point all you have is a remark — a reported remark — of one of the perpetrators," Berluti said.

An FBI spokesman also said the agency had no information to substantiate or refute the report.

B. F. Goodrich sold the plant more than a year ago and, at the time, some 1,600 persons were employed there.

In a visit here Sunday, Gov. Ella T. Grasso called the situation unprecedented in Connecticut. Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., and Rep. Ronald A. Sarasin, R-Conn., also said they would seek emergency aid.

Shelton police said the three abductors carried shotguns.

"I'm just lucky to be alive," said Robert DeJoy, a boilerman, one of the three kidnaped.

The kidnapers apparently used DeJoy's car to take the workers to a wooded area in Monroe, five miles away, where they were released.

The car, a red Mustang, was found at 6:35 a.m. parked in front of a garage in Derby, a town adjoining Shelton.

Shelton police refused to release the names of the other two workers but said the three were sent home Sunday morning after questioning.

Police said the fire broke out at around 11:30 p.m. Saturday after an apparent bomb blast in the brick building. Firemen said the blaze started in three different places.

A BOMBING and fire hit a sponge rubber plant in Shelton, Conn. late Saturday night, and contiued to burn into Sunday. The four-block long factory was completely destroyed. Three kidnaped workers said abductors claimed they were members of the Weather Underground.

Nab suspect in sniper killing of 4 at motel

SMITH RIVER, Calif. (UPI) — A man suspected of gunning down four people Sunday with a rifle at a resort motel here was arrested by Oregon State Police several hours after the sniper shootings.

Del Norte County sheriff's officers called the man, who was stopped on the Redwood Highway near Grants Pass in southwestern Oregon, a "prime suspect." Grant's Pass is about 90 miles northeast of Smith River, which is near the Oregon-California border. Oregon authorities said the suspect was driving a car with Ohio license plates.

Details of the shooting were sketchy, but witnesses said the gunman unboxed a rifle, walked onto the balcony of the Ship Ashore Resort Motel and shot at least six persons, fatally wounding four. Names of the victims were unavailable.

Reports from the scene said the gunman fired first on persons in a parking lot, then turned the high powered rifle on the motel lobby.

Officers discovered a rifle shipping box and ammunition in the motel unit occupied by the suspect.

Algeria asks drastic OPEC oil action

ALGIERS (UPI) — Algeria warned oil exporting countries Sunday they may have to take drastic action to defeat U.S. attempts to split their ranks and drive down the price of oil.

The 13 nations of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries are to open their first summit meeting here Tuesday.

Algerian Foreign Minister Abdelaziz Bouteflika, addressing the presummit meeting of OPEC ministers, reflected growing concern within the cartel that recession and oil surpluses may force them to cut prices and their income.

Bouteflika accused the United States of "strategic maneuvers, threats and pressures."

He told the OPEC ministers they might have to reduce oil output, link oil prices to those of Western industrial goods and stop quoting oil prices in dollars — all to keep prices at present high levels.

There was no indication the summit would adopt his proposals, although some are already under study in OPEC committees.

"Warmongering logic means the specter of armed intervention," Bouteflika said in apparent reference to U.S. warnings of the use of force if Western economies face "strangulation by an Arab oil embargo.

"Such threats, craftily interspersed with tranquilizng declarations, have the sole aim of disrupting our ranks and forcing backsliding in our development," Bouteflika said.

IN WASHINGTON, meanwhile, Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said Sunday his panel has drafted a "solid, tough" energy package that could be the basis of a compromise between conflicting programs proposed by President Ford and congressional Democrats.

The Ullman plan was the third major energy program in a month. Ullman criticized the Democratic package, which was unveiled Friday, as being "watered down to the point where the Ways and Means Committee doesn't believe that it will adequately do the job."

A 34-page Democratic report drawn up by "task forces" comprised of members of Ullman's committee, also flatly rejected Ford's program, which is based on controversial oil import fees, as running "the real risk of deepening both the inflation and recession pressures existing today."

Ullman said the main points of the plan included:

- A tax increase on "excess" use of gasoline over a basic limit, beginning with a nickel a gallon and increasing to 40 cents a gallon by 1979.
- Establishment of a Federal Petroleum Purchasing Agency that would buy imported oil from the nation which supplied the lowest sealed bid.
- Gradual imposition of oil import quotas with a goal of cutting back imports by 1 million barrels per day over a two to three year period and further decreases thereafter.
- A tax on automobiles with poor fuel economy and a possible tax credit for those with good gas mileage.
- A windfall profits tax based on the assumption of gradual deregulation of oil and natural gas prices.
- Incentives for research and development of alternative energy sources and for conversion of electric power plants from oil to coal.

Kissinger heading back to Mideast

Plans to negotiate Israeli troop withdrawal

by United Press International

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will try to negotiate a withdrawal of Israeli troops from both Egypt and Syria when he visits the Middle East this week, an Israeli newspaper said Sunday.

"Kissinger's coming visit will deal not only with Egypt but also will try to reach agreement on the Golan Heights," the Tel Aviv newspaper Ha'aretz said in a dispatch from Washington.

"It has been learned that Kissinger is of the opinion that it is very desirable that a separation of forces agreement should be achieved on the Golan Heights as well as Sinai."

Government sources in Jerusalem, meanwhile, said Israel continued to feel that an additional agreement with Syria on the Golan Heights "could come into the planning for the future but not for an interim accord."

Henry Kissinger

One source said negotiations toward a general agreement with Syria over the Heights would be possible "at a period when things are ripe and they are not yet ripe."

Israel captured the Golan Heights from Syria and the Sinai Desert from Egypt in the 1967 Middle East war.

In other developments Sunday:

- Iraq's ruling Baath party issued a statement accusing the Syrian government of planning to commit a "national crime" by participating in Kissinger's peacemaking efforts.
- A PLO spokesman in Beirut said the group has received a message from the Egyptian government that could lead to better relations between the two sides.

Airlifted rice to military, not civilians in Cambodia

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — The Cambodian government has ordered all rice carried into Phnom Penh by the American airlift withheld from starving civilians and given only to the military, a senior official said Sunday.

The decision by President Lon Nol meant there was no relief in sight for starving residents of the besieged capital who have been unable to obtain provisions since the food markets closed.

Social workers confirmed that with the exception of some camps run by American volunteers, even penniless refugees in Phnom Penh were being denied the airlifted American rice. They said deaths resulting from starvation were increasing daily.

Most of the estimated 60,000 destitute refugees in government-run camps have to depend on their own wits to obtain food.

The director of one of the city's largest camps, housing a half-finished luxury hotel, said "Only the children here (about 1,000) get food.

In Saigon, meanwhile, an official U.S. congressional delegation met with Communist representatives in a heated confrontation that one legislator said convinced him to vote in favor of continuing military aid to Indochina.

The eight members of the congressional delegation spent two hours during their last day in Saigon in separate meetings with North Vietnamese and Viet Cong officers.

Officials said it was the first meeting between Communists and an official U.S. delgation in the history of the Indochina war.

During the frequently stormy exchanges, the legislators pressed for information on the fate of Americans missing in Indochina.

At one point, Rep. John Flynt, D-Ga., pointed at Viet Cong Maj. Gen. Hoang Anh Tuan, and shouted: "Where are the 41 bodies of Americans killed in the war?"

Tuan said he had no obligation to answer the questions and stood up to signal the end of the meeting.

Charge food stamp distribution hindered by inefficiency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Although more Americans are broke and perhaps hungry, administrative inefficiency by the Agriculture Department is hindering food stamp distribution to the needy, a Senate report charged Sunday.

The 71-page report by the Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs calculated that by last September at least 20 million persons eligible for food stamps were not receiving them. Only 38 per cent of those eligible were getting food stamp assistance.

The report said hunger is growing in terms of food stamp need, with the number eligible rising by 50 per cent from over 26 million in 1972 to 38.6 million last year. But food stamps reached 52 per cent of those eligible in 1972.

In addition, as many as 85,000 applicants were waiting more than 30 days to be certified for food stamp eligiblity in February.

The committee's staff concluded:

"The failure of the food stamp program to meet the goals mandated by Congress can be traced directly to the restrictive policies and practices of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, policies that have plagued the poor for years and are now preventing the food stamp program from meeting the needs of the newly unemployed."

An Agriculture Department survey released Saturday indicated nearly a quarter of those receiving food stamps may not be eligible or their eligibility was calculated improperly. The Senate report indicated the department was more concerned about food stamp fraud by a minority than about making sure persons who are eligible get their stamps.

The report proposed simplifying the present six-page food stamp application form with spot-check verifications, and said application forms should be available at post offices.

The Agriculture Department, in cooperation with the states, should increase programs to advise the needy that they are eligible for stamps and how to obtain them, it said.

Currently, the federal government pays 100 per cent of the "bonus allowance" difference between the cost of the stamps and the amount of food they can purchase. The states and the federal government now share administration costs, but the report recommended that the federal share be increased to 60 per cent.

The District of Columbia, California, Rhode Island, Illinois and New Jersey had the highest participation among eligible recipients in the stamp program last year. Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming, North Dakota and Idaho had the worst participation record.

Sen. George McGover, D-S.D., who chairs the Nutrition Committee, recently accused Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz and President Ford of seeking to reduce the benefits of the food stamp program. He said Sunday the report described "a comprehensive accounting of the insensitivity and inadequacy of the Department of Agriculture's administration of the food stamp program."

He said most of the report's recommendations could be implemented without congressional action.

"Instead, we hear about a program gone wild — grown too big. Well, the program hasn't gone wild," McGovern said. "It has simply grown to meet the needs of the American people — people trapped in the worst economic decline since the great depression."

Youngsters clown around a bit on their own with chef's hats.

Curlyhead captivates kiddies with his cutups... and oooh, those magic tricks!

'That Jack'th thum clown'

A clown has come to town to captivate the preschool children at Prospect Heights Community Church, 400 N. Elmhurst Rd.

Jack Thum, with his electrifying curly red hair, dressed in bright checks and bric-a-brac for the special event. He waltzed onto the stage and drew the children into a program of magic tricks and whimsical jokes.

There's no need to say in words how the children enjoyed the program. Their laughter throughout showed their pleasure.

We'll support all sectors, WRP insists

by JOE FRANZ

The Wheeling Representative Party launched its campaign Sunday with its candidates pledging "neighborhood representation" if they are elected to the village board.

"That's the basis of our whole campaign," said WRP candidate Kenneth R. Brady. "We feel that if you're on the village board you should be familiar with the problems in all the neighborhoods and should try to represent all the people."

Brady is joined on the WRP slate by Neil H. Brant, Roger A. Powers and Robert E. Clark.

Brady said WRP candidates are dispersed throughout the village and therefore can relate to the different problems facing various sections of the village.

"I think the people should realize what can happen if all the village board members live on one block," he said. "It just wouldn't be a good thing."

Clark added, "We all care about our neighborhoods, but we also have to care about the village as a whole. We feel that we are in a good position to accomplish this."

THE REMARKS were directed at the Wheeling Improvement Party (WHIP), one of two parties opposing WRP in the April 15 election. WHIP has been criticized because all its candidates live on Berkshire Drive in the northwest section of the village.

WHIP supporters have said that although the entire slate lives in a small area, the candidates are sensitive to the needs of all residents and will represent the entire village.

In addition to WHIP, WRP faces opposition from the Wheeling Community Party (COM-PAR).

POWERS SAID that while WRP has candidates from four distinct geographical areas in Wheeling, he belives that is only part of the party's "neighborhood-representation concept."

"The geography is certainly part of it, but we feel we have four candidates that have different things to offer the village," he said. "We feel the party is well balanced because our candidates have backgrounds in different areas."

The WRP campaign kick off was at the party's headquarters, 47 N. Wolf Rd. Among the WRP supporters attending an open house Sunday afternoon were Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon and Trustee William Hein.

Brant said the campaign headquarters will be open from 4 to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday to give residents the opportunity to meet WRP candidates and ask questions about village government.

Hoffman Estates hospital work 'to begin July 1'

by PAT GERLACH

Construction of the Community Hospital of Hoffman Estates is expected to begin before July 1, an official of American Medicorp Inc. said.

"We have received all the necessary approvals and are ready to go as soon as a timetable is established by our facilities planning people," said Terrence Schuessler, a representative of the Pennsylvania-based hospital development.

The 312-bed hospital is planned on 23 acres at Higgins and Barrington roads, purchased by the developer for about $1 million.

SCHUESSLER SAID cancellation of plans for Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center Schaumburg branch hospital will "in no way" affect the Hoffman Estates project.

He said construction, expected to take 24 months, should begin during the first half of this year.

A recent estimate of construction costs pegged the project at $17 million, Schuessler said, nothing that he "would not be surprised" if that figure increases by the time ground is broken.

The hospital is planned as a six-story structure containing administrative offices and laboratories on the first two floors and patient rooms in two circular towers at either end of the building.

THE OUTER CORE of the building will be completed during the initial construction, but the developer may not complete the entire interior until the need for additional beds arises.

The Rush Medical Center 160-bed branch hospital, which would have been about two miles south of the Hoffman Estates hospital, was canceled last week because of current economic conditions and increased cost of construction.

It was originally estimated at $12 million when plans were announced three years ago, though hospital officials say the cost has now risen to more than $25 million.

Trustees to meet to review budget

The Buffalo Grove Village Board will meet as a committee-of-the-whole today to review budget reports for the present fiscal year.

The meeting will start at 8 p.m. at the village hall, 50 Raupp Blvd.

Trustees also will hear a request for financial assistance by the Metropolitan Enforcement Group for a drug program.

Board members will review the status of an improvement project of Arlington Heights Road north of Ill. Rte. 83 to Thompson Boulevard. Buffalo Grove has asked financial assistance for this project from the village of Long Grove and Vernon Township Highway Commission.

Half of husband's benefits

Since my husband is younger than I am, I decided to take Social Security benefits on my own work record when I was 62. Last month, my husband reached 65 and I started getting wife's payments on his record. I thought a wife got half of her husband's benefit, but my check is less than half. How come?

Generally, a wife gets half of the amount her husband gets at 65. Your check is reduced because you started getting benefits before 65. The reduced amount takes account of the longer period over which you'll get Social Security payments.

Let's see, where were we?

Herald opinion

Let's unite for new hospital

The apparent collapse of a plan to build a branch of Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital in Schaumburg provides an opportunity to correct what we believe has been a major failing in hospital planning.

St. Luke's announced last week that the declining economy and rising construction costs have caused it to shelve plans for the branch. Estimated pricetag for the new hospital has more than doubled in three years to $25.5 million.

The one-third contribution expected from the community, a St. Luke's official said, has also doubled and at $8 million appears now to be an unreachable goal.

Loss of a branch of such a prestigious institution as St. Luke's is a serious disappointment. But there is now a chance to correct what we believe would have been a serious error: the wasteful duplication of hospital beds and facilities in the Schaumburg-Hoffman Estates area.

Plans for the Schaumburg hospital were developed while officials of Hoffman Estates and American Medicorp, Inc. were planning a hospital of their own. The two facilities would have been about two miles apart.

The two would have added almost 400 hospital beds at a time when the projected 1979 need for the area was set by a state study at 94 more beds. Other studies had found a need for a single new hospital, at the most, in the Schaumburg-Hoffman Estates area.

But neither these recommendations nor the clear warnings of experts that hospital overbuilding could be financially ruinous to health care in the Chicago area slowed the hospital race in the two communities. Now that the economy has done what the planners should have — mandated only one hospital for Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates — the two communities should close ranks on the issue.

We suggest that the two villages form a common organization to work with American Medicorp in building the new hospital. We also urge that its name, the Community Hospital of Hoffman Estates, be changed to reflect the larger area that will be served. An effort should be made to enlist residents of both communities in the many volunteer and service organizations that the new hospital will need.

The hospital site could become the center of a medical complex serving both Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg.

The benefits, we believe, will be worthwhile enough to make up for the loss of St. Luke's.

Ehrlichman's idea

If John Ehrlichman accomplished nothing else, his recent Watergate-related actions have raised important questions about criminal punishment and the past treatment of American Indians.

On Thursday, representatives of eight Pueblo Indian tribes turned down Ehrlichman's plea that he be allowed to serve "personal penance" as a lawyer aiding the Indians in their land-claim struggles.

When Ehrlichman was sentenced for his role in the Watergate coverup, U.S. Distdrict Court Judge John Sirica turned down the request for an alternate sentence, but Ehrlichman later said he might do the project on his own.

Ehrlichman's original proposal wasn't a bad one, for it could have served as an example of a creative alternative to the traditional way in which we toss men and women into prison (we're not certain that Ehrlichman, specifically, should avoid jail, but his idea sounded commendable.)

More importantly, perhaps, his proposal calls attention to the abuses heaped upon the first residents of the United States. Our record of neglect and abuse of American Indians is legend, and it's a sorry record which our government should strive to change.

'William the Dreadful'

Simon: 'demanding, but respected'

by TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON — It is 9 a.m. and all hell has busted outside the office of the Secretary of Treasury. William Simon is scheduled for an interview on the hour, but nobody can find the interviewer.

Secretaries are dispatched as bloodhounds, carpet edges are lifted in the search, and a $35,000-a-year assistant puts an emergency call to the newsman's office where he learns, with heart ready to burst, no one at the office has seen him either. Woe almighty, what in heaven's name will the Secretary think?

Relax. It turns out the newsman is in the reception room all the while, twiddling his toes and thumbing through the pages of Business Week, petroleum import statistics and other absorbing literature.

The Secretary, as it happens, doesn't really give that much of a dingle about the scribe. The issue is punctuality, not to mention accurate scheduling, staff efficiency and successful expectations. Errant interviewers can't be penalized, but a cowering staff is less immune.

The story is that when Bill Simon, self-proclaimed pain, cannot reach an aid for information, no matter the hour or circumstance, he assigns the hapless chap to the "Beeper Brigade," a legendary army of Simonites who go through life wearing elecronic devices which are tuned into the demanding Secretary's beck and call.

The Beeper Brigade, Simon says, is a myth. But whether his people do or do not wear homing equipment in fact, they at least do in fancy. If the Secretary is not so hardnosed as the tales would have it, some on his immediate staff believe the worst.

Employes fairly tiptoe around the man, secretaries await his buzz as an alert from Jehovah, otherwise important Treasury veterans smile when he smiles and frown when he frowns. "In 15 years," says one bureau mainstay, "I've never seen the likes of him. I think he's a hell of a good man, but I hate to go into his office."

The opinion is echoed a various points in the treasury catacombs.

Ironically, the Simon characteristics which most bitterly annoy some of his people are the very ones which encourage much of its public. His Dreadfulness is an indefatigable foreman, one of the few in Washington who demand more than necessary out of tax-paid bureaucrats.

In a town where civil servants put in seven hours on a good day, and have holidays unknown to the rest of the country, the Secretary expects more. And to his credit, he sets the example: 15-hour days, six days a week, and as for Sunday he says, pointing to a red notebook under his arm, "Sundays I spend going over the accumulated papers."

WILLIAM SIMON

Son of a successful silk-dyeing mogul who lost the family's first fortune in the Great Depression, Simon started his professional life as he says, "an unemployed guy with a wife, two kids and $5,000 in debts." He hooked on with a Wall Street brokerage house 23 years ago, applied himself, set his sight on hard-earned triumph if not human contact, and achieved it. His $60,000 government salary is peanuts to a personal fortune of about $3 million.

His loot has extracted a higher price than sweat, perhaps. He admits to being "a lousy father" to his seven kids, and close aides say his wife must love him dearly "because absence makes the heart grow fonder." Besides this, he has tended to ignore other social experiences enroute to achievement. "He has many associates," says an associate, "but few friends." Official Washington believes him diamond hard, chilly, one-sided, "a Bob McNamara without artillery."

The opinion is surely exaggerated. Anyone with seven kids is a testimony to considerable emotion. Top assistant Jerry Parksy says he's driven, sure, but soft, too: "When I leave town, he checks to make sure my family's okay. Christmas time he's down in the print shop, shaking hands."

As a result of this image, Simon has won no niche in the aristocracy known as Potomac Pals. If one doesn't slap backs after hours, or pinch rumps in the secretary pool, The Establishment here is confused.

Thus when rumors of a fallout between the Secretary and the President began last month, and stories of Simon's departure circulated, few came to his defense. Some who should know better are still lobbying for Simon's finish, all the more because he's showing signs of digging in.

The Secretary's refusal to bow out is something of an insight into a character difficult to categorize. He accepted the Treasury chair with a bold, even arrogant promise to cut the budget and increase taxes, saying government spending has been to blame for the nation's economic delicacy. His demands have been rejected, and he's known to be resultantly humiliated. Still, he declines to resign.

Why? Critics believe he's grown too fond of his private dining room, Secret Service guards, and the rare power which stops traffic, holds elevators and turns heads as he approaches. This, however, may be nonsense. "As long as I have input, I'll stay," Simon insists, "and I still have input." Besides this, and much more important, Simon adds: "My job isn't finished yet. I came here to do something, to produce a better product in Treasury. I think I can still do it."

This, then, is Bill Simon stripped down. Like many Americans he spent much of his life reading of Washington and weeping; unlike most, he's gotten the opportunity to do something about it. "Big government," he says, passionately, "is not what made this country great. Free enterprise has." His message is almost religious: he'd dearly love to print red money until the federal budget was balanced.

And what's more: it is not only untrue to think individuals suffer when free enterprise profits, he says, it's backward. Individuals are suffering now because corporations rarely profit enough. One, he points out, leaning forward, smoking and talking at once, corporate profits after inflationary adjustments are "at an all-time low." Two, undistributed profits, which amounted to $20 billion in 1965, "will probably be minus $10 billion this year." Three, and four, and five, ad infinitum. Productivity is a third what it is in Japan, corporate investment is shrinking; "It's not new business taxes that are needed, it's new business tax relief." This is the Billy Graham of capitalism.

And so he continues slaving from behind a mahogany desk across the street from the White House, a picture of Alexander Hamilton, the first Treasury Secretary on the wall. Now an interview, now a call from the President, now a passel of signatures. Important men are ushered into his office, and "when they pause for a breath" ushered back out.

He presides over 105,000 employes, he oversees such diverse responsibilities as U.S. Customs and U.S. savings bond sales, he is chairman or member of four dozen national and international economic committees — and he's in such a hurry that once he started to walk out of his office without his shoes.

It is 7 p.m. and Simon has been on the job for 12 hours, and is still counting the coins. His secretaries, weary, are quietly departing. The pace is slowing down. The reporter, still around, asks somebody: "Doesn't he ever stop to smell the flowers?" What? "Never mind." The lights in the halls go low, but not in the Secretary's chamber.

Fence post letters to the editor

Crane backer defends room usage

We feel it is necessary for us to respond to the letter published in The Herald editions of Feb. 21 about the "Phil Crane Youth Caucus" and U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane in general.

The writer of the earlier letter was incorrect in saying that our organizational meeting of Feb. 9 at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library was a private one. In fact, the meeting was open to interested members of the public. I personally received several telephone calls from interested individuals and all were told that they were welcome to attend. The same is true of other members of the Youth Caucus Steering Committee. One can also verify this by checking the publicity on the meeting, including articles in The Herald and over ten other district newspapers, who through our press releases were informed that the interested members of the public were invited to attend. Members of the news media were also invited and follow up contact was made to make sure that they were aware of the meeting.

As a matter of fact, a number of nonmembers came to the meeting and all were welcomed at the door. From a variety of questions about a variety of topics — anyone in attendance is aware that the meeting was not just one of his "ardent supporters." We recognize the right of people to question their elected officials and anybody at that meeting had that opportunity.

The writer stated that Congressman Crane's trips to the district are few and far between. Last year he made over 30 trips back to the district on a regular basis. Public notice, in the form of newspaper articles publicize speeches and other public appearances that Rep. Crane makes during the year.

If the Congressman were here on a full-time basis, then the writer would probably say that he was neglecting his duties in Washington. This session Congressman Crane was appointed to the House Ways and Means Committee which is writing major tax, health care and energy legislation. As a member of this panel, we have a direct voice in the economic future of the nation.

The "Phil Crane Youth Caucus" is an independent organization of young people from throughout the 12th District who came to Congressman Crane with the idea of forming a group of young people. We are pleased with his cooperation and willingness to help us out. We are tired of high taxes, excessive government regulation and in general the type of world we live in.

The "Phil Crane Youth Caucus" is off to a fast and furious public start with over 80 people in attendance at the first meeting on Feb. 9. With the state of the country today, we need people like Congressman Crane; that's why we established a youth caucus. We want to be sure of the type of world we grow up in.

We feel that U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane will continue to do an outstanding job as a member of the Congress. He has always been open, honest and above all a true representative for the 12th District.

Rips water pollution

My name is Susan Dickens. I am eight years old.

It would be very thoughtful if you could put an article in the newspaper because we are studying pollution and because people in Buffalo Grove are polluting streams. I think water is the worst. So would you please?

How are your biorhythms?

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON — Had your biorhythms checked lately?

If not, that may explain why, while passing the Robot Brass Band at the Mechanical Music Museum, you got your head caught in the tuba and were nearly oompahed to death.

Biorhythms, according to those who believe in such things, are the ebb and flow of sensitivity and your physical and intellectual capacities. Each of which goes its own separate way.

In theory, the waxing and waning of these capacities accounts for the fact that you feel energetic one week and pooped the next; creative on some days, dull-witted on others; etc.

Also in theory, these fluctuations run in cycles that can be charted so you will know ahead of time when you will be most competent or most vulnerable.

Advance information of that sort is said to be especially helpful in preventing accidents. Biorhythmists claim that "awareness of your critical days can decrease chances of accidents as much as 70 per cent."

Example: Had you consulted a biorhythmic chart you would have known that a week ago last Tuesday was not a good day to visit the Mechanical Music Museum.

There is a company in this area that prepares these charts on a six-month basis for $5.95 per individual. But think twice about ordering one.

Being forewarned of your own peaks and valleys is only half the battle. To take maximum advantage of the system you would need to know the biorhythmic cycles of persons with whom you are traveling down life's highway.

In fact, knowing your own nadirs and zeniths without knowing another person's apogees and perigees could be a distinct disadvantage.

Let's say your local cultural impresario has booked a classical trombone virtuoso for a concert the 17th of next month.

Your biorhythm chart shows your sensitivity curve is on the upswing and is due to top out around that date. Good.

That means your receptors will be fully attuned to derive the utmost enjoyment from the concert. So you rush out and buy a ticket for the best seat in the house. Aha!

Now what if the trombonist's chart shows his physical and intellectual curves bottoming out on the same evening?

That means he is going to have trouble (a) reading the notes on his score and (b) playing them right when he does read them.

And with your sensitivity perception at its most acute, all those clinkers he hits will sound doubly bad to your ears.

The moral of which is: Until you are in a position to synchronize your biorhythms with the company you keep, you may be better off uncharted.

The moon is nearing its last quarter.

The evening stars are Saturn, Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Pisces.

Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, was born March 3, 1847.

On this day in history:

- In 1849, the United States Department of Interior was created by Congress.
- In 1879, a woman lawyer practiced before the U.S. Supreme Court for the first time. She was Mrs. Belva Ann Lockwood.
- In 1931, the Star Spangled Banner was designated by an Act of Congress as the "National Anthem of the United States."
- In 1974, 345 persons were killed when a Turkish plane crashed near Paris.

A thought for the day: American writer William Henry Hudson said, "You cannot fly like an eagle with the wings of a wren."

GOP committeemen rap report opposing holding of elected posts

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Four suburban committeemen Sunday predicted opposition to a Republican Party Task Force proposal that would discourage election to both party and state, federal or county posts.

The recommendation — which would encourage GOP state or township committeemen to vacate party positions if elected to public office — was included in a 27-page report that proposed sweeping changes in the state organization.

Eleven of 30 suburban committeemen — including Carl Hansen of Elk Grove Township; Donald Totten of Schaumburg Township; Floyd Fulle of Maine Township; John Nimrod of Niles Township; Bernard Petersen of Palatine Township, and Hal Tyrrell of Proviso Township — also are elected county, state or township officials.

NO PERSON CAN best serve the public or the party whenever there is an inherent conflict of interests," the report released Saturday said.

An elected official's "primary interest could be that office and he would not devote enough time to the political post," said William DuVall, co-chairman of the task force.

The recommendation would not be binding and will be discussed at a meeting of task force and state central committeemen March 16.

The task force, not an official arm of the GOP, was formed three months ago by Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., after Democrats swept the Nov. 5 county and state election.

HANSEN, ALSO a county board member, said the conflict-of-interest statement is a "catch-all phrase designed to sell their point. I haven't seen the report, but I would certainly question their conclusion.

"It's always been my opinion that we need more people who are elected who do something for the party," said Totten, also a state representative. "As long as you can tend to your job, it's up to the party and to the individual."

"I don't think a person should go to Congress and be a committeman. But, positions like a county commissioner and a committeeman are very compatible," Totten said.

Pedersen, Palatine Township assessor, said the recommendation "would go a long way toward destroying the Republican Party because so many officials do have party positions."

The report does not include township officials in the list of elected positions that could conflict with party positions.

TYRRELL, also a county board member, was the only suburban committeeman available Sunday who attended the task force meeting in Chicago. "There's much good in what they say. But I would like more elected officials involved in the party. They forget about us once they're elected."

"In view of the November elections and what happened in Chicago last Tuesday . . . there is a tendency to look for an easy answer for reviving the Republican Party," DuVall, who headed former President Richard Nixon's reelection campaign in Illinois, said. "It is unfair to suggest that this report will automatically mean that the GOP will become the majority party in the state, which is our long-range goal."

DuVall refused to predict that the state central committee will adopt the report.

The report — called "A Party of the People" — was written after five public hearings which involved more than 2,000 witnesses.

"The thrust of this report is to provide a party that is broad in people and philosophy," DuVall said. Task force members included Metropolitan Sanitary District Trustee Joan Anderson; former U.S. Senate candidate George Burditt; former county sheriff candidate Peter Bensinger, and University of Illinois trustee Jane Rader.

Committeemen holding elected posts...

Suburban Republican Party committeemen who also are elected state, county or township officials are:

- County Comr. Floyd Fulle of Maine Township.
- State Sen. John Nimrod of Niles Township.
- County Comr. Carl Hansen of Elk Grove Township.
- State Rep. Donald Totten of Schaumburg Township.
- Assessor Bernard Petersen of Palatine Township.
- County Comr. Ronald Larson of Worth Township.
- Supervisor Joseph Fox of Thornton Township.
- County Comr. Hal Tyrrell of Proviso Township.
- Assessor William Dammeier of Norwood Park Township.
- Clerk John F. Kimbark of Cicero Township.
- Assessor Gene Leonard of Bremen Township.

Task Force lists recommendations for GOP growth

Key recommendations to the Republican Party's Task Force 75/76 report include:

- A nonbinding ban on election to both a GOP committeman's position and to either state, federal or county office.
- Reorganization of party funding. The recently formed Illinois Republican Finance Committee would raise funds statewide and the traditional GOP fund-raiser, the United Republican Fund, would unite with the Cook County GOP organization to raise local funds.
- Hiring of professional, full-time staff organized around Congressional districts to direct party public relations, fund-raising and activities.
- Expansion of the state central committee, which now includes one representative of each Congressional district.
- A change in the date of Illinois primary elections. The current March primary election should be moved to a later date to cut campaign time and reduce campaign expenses.
- Issuing of membership cards to all persons who vote Republican in primary elections.
- Creation of an "open-door" policy that would "refute the perception by many that the party is ingrown and unconcerned about the problems of racial and ethnic minorities, union workers and those who are generally not affluent."
- Opening of storefront information and assistance centers throughout the state to rebuild the party.

Only 2 of 10 call selves Republicans

GOP failing to tell side in disputes, director says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The reason fewer than two of every 10 Americans call themselves Republicans is because the party has failed to properly identify itself and tell its side in disputes with Democrats over public issues, the GOP's top professional politician said Sunday.

Edward Mahe, executive director of the Republican National Committee, said a "comprehensive" public opinion survey conducted for the GOP in 42 states showed the party "is in the mainstream on its position on the issues."

The survey and its conclusion that the GOP must aggressively present the reasons for its proposals and policies will be presented Wednesday to the Republican National Committee by Chairman Mary Louise Smith.

AT THAT MEETING and a two-day conference of 1,500 party leaders and activists, Mrs. Smith will lay out details of an organizing, service and public relations campaign aimed at increasing GOP allegiance nationwide.

Mahe emphasized that the survey by the Robert Teeter organization, showing a voter party identification of 18 per cent Republican, 42 per cent Democratic and 40 per cent independent, does not mean the public rejects GOP ideas.

"They do see the Republican Party as representative of many of the things they believe in themselves," Mahe said. "But there is no doubt that there is a confidence problem with the Republican Party. There is an 'image' problem. What we are perceived as being, they don't perceive themselves as being in terms of individuals.

AS TO ISSUES, Mahe said it is clear that Republicans have been regarded as "against the little people," when really: "If we were able to get out the reasons why we oppose these pieces of legislation, why the ultimate total cost of these things are ultimately going to do in the little man with everybody else, we think it would be a very compelling argument."

Responding to a suggestion of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., that former Gov. Ronald Reagan of California would be a good spokesman for the GOP, Mahe said:

"I don't think any one person can do the job and I don't think any one person speaks for the entire Republican Party. Gov. Reagan is doing a lot of speaking and has a broad dissemination of his ideas through the other avenues that he is pursuing and I'm confident that this will be very helpful.

"But likewise, I'm confident that other spokesmen for the party such as Sen. Jacob Javits of New York and Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois will also be a help in this kind of effort."

A 3-year dream comes true

Forest View is on the air

STUDENT NEWS is given over the air by Barb Tylka. The Forest View High School radio station operates five days a week from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.

A group of Forest View High School students has taken to the air in a new area of study at the school.

But the program has nothing to do with flying and the students never leave the school. They've taken to the air over the school's new radio station, WFVH (88.3 FM).

A three-year dream was realized recently when the students, led by faculty adviser LeRoy Thompson put the station on the air, a first for High School Dist. 214.

Working with used equipment donated or sold at low prices by local radio stations, the students now broadcast five days a week from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. with the intention of being "as professional as possible."

"We don't want to be referred to as 'that high school station,' " said Thompson, an electronics instructor at the school.

THOUGH HE'S never had any professional radio experience, Thompson helped get the station organized after students approached him for help three years ago. Last year, "for practice," the radio station operated within the school only, using the school's speaker system.

The station's power is only 10 watts, compared with 50,000 watts of Chicago's largest stations. Nevertheless, those who staff the station get excited when they find their signal has reached a little beyond its normal 7½-mile radius. The station hopes to reach farther later this month when its transmitting tower is extended.

The station's programming features school sports events, children's stories, school and district news and a variety of "middle-of-the-road" music. "We're talk oriented, rather than music oriented," said Thompson.

Working with old and used equipment gives the students a lot of chances to learn not only how to use, but also repair, the station's equipment. Some of the station's cantankerous equipment have been dubbed with names of endearment by students, like the station's transmitter.

They call it Gertrude.

Bike path to Woodfield considered

Plans for a bicycle path in the area, possibly leading to the Woodfield Shopping Center, Schaumburg, will be the topic of a meeting Thursday between various village and Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission officials.

Mary Cascino, NIPA planner, said she hopes to get suggestions from village officials on the needs for bikeways in the Northwest suburbs. She said the question of whether people will ride their bikes to large regional shopping centers also will be brought up.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at Harper College. Officials from Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Medinah, Roselle and the County Forest Preserve District have been invited.

Mrs. Cascino said NIPC "was hoping to use the methodology (in this system) for a regional approach." A committee of NIPC has been working on proposal for a bike trail system linking Cook, Kane, Will, McHenry, DuPage and Lake counties.

She said she wanted to see what various municipalities have in the way of bikeways and what they might be interested in. She said the system would be not only for recreation, but also for transportation.

Air Force Academy nominee

Gordon Gregory, a senior at St. Viator High School has been nominated to the United States Air Force Academy by Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Gregory received a letter from the Vice President stating, "From the thousands of applications received, only the top 20 were selected to compete for the two nominations that I have available to me. Your selection to compete for a nomination is a significant accomplishment and one for which you can be justifiably proud."

Academy officials will select two of the 20 Rockefeller nominees based on scholastic record, extracurricular activities, references, entrance examinations and other requirements.

Gregory, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Gregory of Palatine, was also nominated to the academy by U.S. Rep. Philip Crane, R-12th.

DEEANA COPELAND'S hat, scarf mittens and vest have been made from her snowy, white dogs. The hair spins into yarn similar to angora, but is heavier and warmer. The white fur can be dyed as is her sweater trim.

Dogdom's contribution

Fido's hair makes warm sweaters

by MARIANNE SCOTT

At one time Anne Copeland had 14 Samoyed dogs. And each spring each adult dog would shed about 12 ounces of hair.

Anne, who has been knitting and crocheting since she was 7 years old, couldn't see all that hair going to waste so she took up spinning — spinning dog hair.

From her studies of the breed Anne knew that as far back as 2000 years ago, Samoyed hair was spun, then woven into cloth for warm garments. The huge dogs with the thick white coats originated above the arctic circle in an area between Siberia and Finland, but are not to be confused with sled dogs.

Good natured and loving, with no trace of wolf in their background, they were used as hunters, reindeer herders and as pets who slept with members of the household to keep them warm. Anne's Samoyeds fall into the latter class and although her dogs prefer to sleep on the floor where it's cooler, their hair is knitted into warm mittens, sweaters and slippers.

IT'S THE SOFT undercoat of the dogs that Anne spins. The outer coat with its guard hairs is coarser, but is excellent for rugs. Samoyed yarn is similar in texture (and shedding) to angora, but warmer and stronger, yet not as strong as sheep's wool which Anne also spins. Samoyed yarn will neither shrink nor stretch and garments can be safely and easily washed.

Anne's first Samoyed yarn was made on a hand spindle, but since the purchase of a spinning wheel from New Zealand, she now does most of her spinning on "the wheel."

The fluffy undercoat, removed by daily brushings, needs no carding and takes well to dyes made from logwood chips, black walnut hulls, dandelion blossoms, lilies of the valley or cochineal. After spinning the hair into a single strand, Anne again uses her wheel to spin it into two-play yarn.

SAMOYED HAIR isn't the only dog hair Anne spins. She has worked on German Shepherd, Newfoundland and Collie, some of which must be carded to blend the various natural shadings. And for $2 per ounce she will spin your dog's hair. Sixteen to 18 ounces of Fido's undercoat are needed for a sweater; two or three ounces for mittens.

Anne is interested in all types of handicrafts. She sews, does decoupage, demonstrates spinning and hopes to take up weaving next. She has been employed as a veterinarian's assistant and for five years did professional dog grooming. She belongs to the Northwest Obedience Club and two Samoyed clubs.

TRAINING DOGS at Northwest is a continuing program for Anne and her three daughters, Deeana, 15, Heather, 12, and Wendy, 9. Besides the Samoyeds, Hippy, Chipper and Candy, the family includes Fuzz Buzz, a Shih Tzu; Ellie and Glory, Bichon Freises; and Chris, the lone feline in the Copelands' Palatine home.

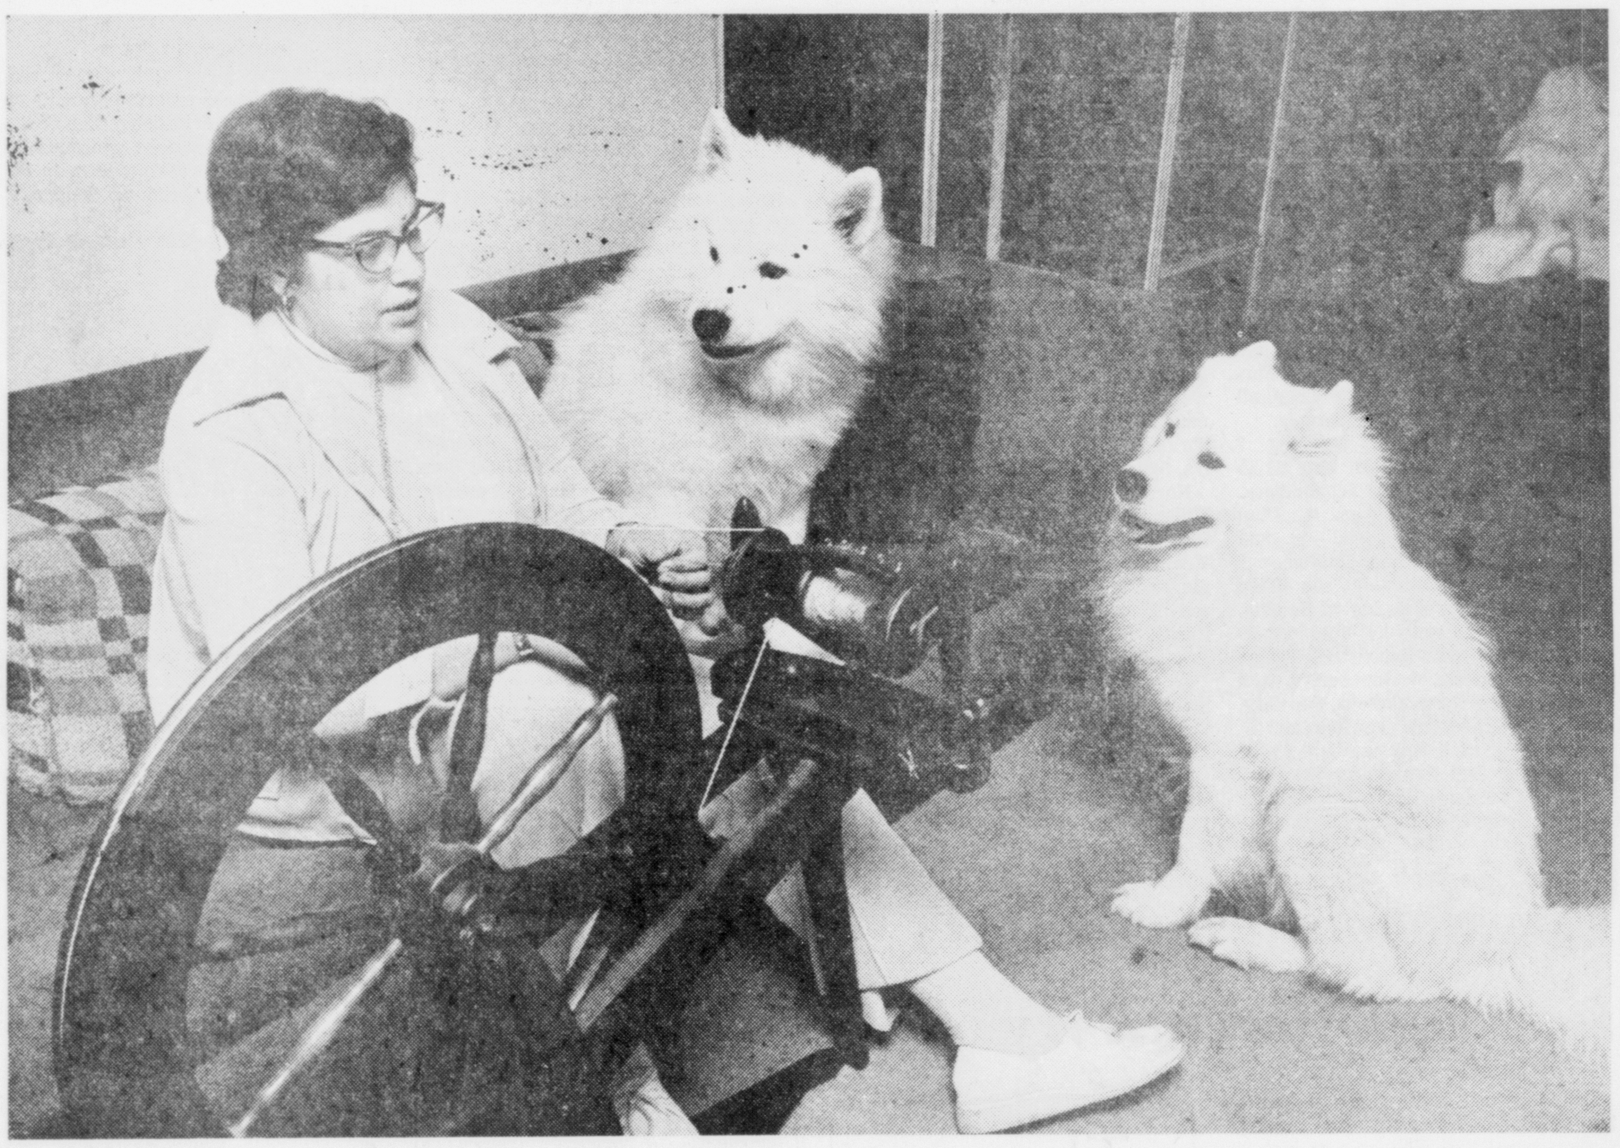

Hippy is an American champion with an American-Canadian Companion Dog obedience degree. He also has three of the ten points needed toward Canadian championship. "In obedience he's a clown," laughed Anne as she recalled Hippy's hamming it up for the audience.

Chipper, who is presently training at Northwest, also has three points toward his Canadian championship. Candy and Fuzz have CD degrees and Ellie is in conformation classes. Anne has served the obedience club in various offices and is secretary for the club's 15th annual obedience trial. The show will be held May 17 at Lake County Fairgrounds and entries are expected to exceed 200 pure bred dogs of all breeds.

SHE IS ALSO serving a fourth term as president of the Chicagoland Samoyed Club and is on the board of directors of the Samoyed Club of America.

While Anne's Samoyeds are contributing toward the warmth of the family, the smaller Copeland dogs (who don't shed) are seemingly exempt from helping to fight the energy crisis. But Anne is hoping to get enough fur from Chris just to see how cat hairs will spin up.

And how do the dogs feel about their hair being spun and made into people clothing? They ignore the whole bit!

DOING THEIR PART in helping the Copelands cope with wintry chills are the family Samoyed dogs whose thick, white hair is spun into angora-like yarn and then knit into clothing. Anne Copelead uses her "wheel" to spin a variety of dog hair such as Newfoundland which resembles mohair.

Fashion

by Karen

It's time to get down to some serious exercising because legs will be out in the open this summer. Shorts are destined to be summer's freshest leg-baring look, moving onto the beaches and into the country.

Betty Grable tap pants are dancing their way into summer. Almost every designer had at least one pair of these flaring, wide-legged styles in their collections. Traditionally tailored, on the loose or gathered like a skirt, tap pants are a great warm-weather look . . . and a great way to show off your long covered-up pins. With them go little tank tops, midriff-baring bandeaus, T-shirts or big-shirts.

The wide-legged look isn't the only style to choose from, however. There are also bloomer shorts, boy scout shorts, city shorts, and shorts suits modeled after the safari slack outfits of spring. From fanny-hugging to longer and cuffed, shorts are taking the fashion front for summer. One-piece playsuits and three-piece outfits are also dressed up eyecatchers.

MAINLY A junior sportswear phenomena, designers show it all . . . from the classic cuffed shorts and the new boxers to 13-button sailors and shapes that are flared to resemble skirts. The safari, rehearsal, walking and cargo shorts of past years also fit the bill. Sometimes worn on their own, these shorts also cover bikinis and maillots or slip under an easy beach skirt.

According to Kal Ruttenstein, vice president of Saks Fifth Avenue, the new shorts are not meant to be an item like hot pants were. "I see them as an integral part of casual living — on the beach or in the country," he added.

For those of you getting a jump on summer with a trip to Florida, here are some predictions for this summer's swimsuit scene.

Some of the nicest swimwear and coordinates this year come from Swedish designers, innovators of the now-famous "string thing."

Among the aquatic stars are many versions of the nearly nude string — solids, checks and stripes. And since skin's in, designers are also making waves with a myriad of brief bikinis with uniquely styled bra tops — angular, plunge and halter.

If a bit more covered look is what you're after, the maillot — sleek, slimming, one-piece comes with wide sashed halters, keyholes, bandeau or empire halter bra styles that are cleverly supportive.

Ther is a panorama of coordinates available in bold splashy florals, art deco, art nouveau. Vest jackets, pajama pants, long overdresses and wrap skirts are made to cover up the body after a hot day in the sun.

Fleecing, a shaggy doggie 'tail'

by MARIANNE SCOTT

The label should read: Made from 100 per cent home-grown poodle fur.

With all the components — a cozy fire, great-grandmother's spinning wheel and poodles to furnish the fleece spinning my own yarns for knitting seemed like a noble patriotic contribution to the recycling effort.

Naturally the dogs complained when they began getting brushed more than usual and finally had to be let in on the plans. They became hysterical.

"You're not going to fleece me! I'll report you to the Humane Society!" shrieked Sugar Plum as she struggled from my grasp to glare at me from under the sofa.

"I'M TOO LITTLE!" sniveled Cookie Crumb as she tried to make her three-pound frame look even smaller by curling into a little shivering ball.

Even explaining that they weren't going to be sheared naked and that only the fur that ended up on the brush would be used didn't quiet them. "It's stupid, morbid and sordid!" accused Sugar.

It was only after they were promised each a sweater made from their very own fur that they reluctantly agreed to take part in the project.

Actually I had visions of a genuine poodle sweater for myself, but a promise is a promise. And besides, Cookie has been wearing one of my raggedy old sweater sleeves with holes for her legs as none of the hand-me-downs fit her.

While interviewing the expert dog hair spinner (story elsewhere on this page) I watched intently, and with a handful of sheep's wool (no use practicing on that prized poodle hair) I rushed home to do my new thing.

AND IF ANYONE thinks you can't see the spokes for the speed of the wheel — forget it! That's only in the movies of bygone days as young maidens make small talk with the local swains who've come courting. Like the old treadle sewing machine, a spinning wheel can also be electrified to become a handy (?) home appliance, but that would be cheating.

Talk about thick and thin yarn. Mine varied from the girth of a night crawler to the whispiness of a cobweb.

"N'yeh! Y'yeh! You can't do it, dumdum!" jeered the furbearers.

"Sticks and stones may break my bones . . ." I recited as I continued to clumsily spin away, my hands soiled from the unwashed wool and getting a perpetual beauty treatment from the natural lanolin. Sugar held her nose and scorned, "Baa on those filthy sheep! Don't they ever take a bath?"

To make up for a lack of expertise in making yarn, I sought to impress them with my vast knowledge of sheep — like the yarns aboout black sheep being bad news. The legends seem to stem from the fact that you can't do anything with wool from a black sheep unless you want black wool. It can't be bleached or dyed.

AT WHICH POINT my suppliers reminded me that they didn't want to wear each other's hair so would I please keep the stuff in separate piles? They are just smart enough to tell the difference, too!

Now that "putting on the dog" may become a reality at our house I hasten to mention that the Joneses will have a hard time keeping up with us.

Yes sir! Yes sir! Three Baggies full is worth a king's ransom ($100 per pound on the hoof — or paw) according to the master, the dame and the little dogs who live in the lane.

Mary Sherry

He picks death over taxes

At this time of year when that old line about "death and taxes" gets pulled out, I know that if given a choice right now, my husband would pick death.

It's not paying the taxes that bothers him as much as the job of figuring what he owes.

One would think that the obvious way to prolong my husband's life would be to turn the job over to an expert. But that wouldn't eliminate the source of the problem . . . me.

My husband I have drifted into a harmonious handling of our money. He pays the bills, and I balance the checkbook and file the receipts — more or less. And it is this factor of more or less that gets me into trouble every year at tax time.

"WHERE DID YOU put the bill of sale for the car?" Or the closing statement on the house or the contract for this or that, he will ask. Usually I don't have the faintest idea.

Well, that's not quite true. I do have a couple of file boxes and two drawers (I'm down from six) where only important junk goes. The problem is that when I do put this stuff away, I never really look at it. So when it is time to dig it out again, I haven't the least idea of what I'm searching for.

I try to explain to my husband that I have no aptitude for this work. This fact was established by some tests I took as a senior in high school. I could tell him, too, that my high school advisor suggested I become a hairdresser, but my husband, well aware of how neatly I manage my tresses, might then not buy the test results showing my poor filing aptitude.

LAST NIGHT WHEN I reminded him of my scientifically proven lack of filing ability, he sighed and waved toward the litter of papers, forms and instruction books that covered the kitchen table.

"What are you going to do about this every year after I die?"

I thought for a moment and told him that I had just decided to go first. "If I do that, what will you do?" I asked him.

He didn't have to think that one over. "I'll just tell the IRS that my wife kept all the records, and I don't know where anything is."

I didn't have the heart to tell him that would only be good for one year.

Excess moisture prompts foaming of French fry oil

The homeline
by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Is there any solution to the foaming of oil or fat when making French fries? The oil foams so high it threatens to boil over, and I have to watch it every second. I'd be grateful if you had an answer — Mrs. M. Stremersch

Sounds as if your problem is water. Potatoes attract moisture, and unless the French fries are patted dry with paper towels you are sure to get foaming. Hope you are using an oil with a high smoke point. You see, when oils or fats are ated decomposition occurs and there comes a point when fumes are visible. This is the smoke point, and the fumes are acrid. That's why high smoke points are desirable for such things as French fries and so forth. Rely on the vegetable oils for this. Remember, too, that repeated use of a fat reduces the smoke point. Deep frying is more art that science so everyone has to experiment. Fresh vegetable oil and a minimum of water ought to solve your problem.

Dearh Dorothy: My husband brought me a lovely dress from Hong Kong. It is vinyl with a cotton backing. The cleaning instructions say to wipe it with a damp cloth which works fine. However, is it possible to use an iron on the backing to remove wrinkles? —Mildred Gagn

To get wrinkles out of vinyl, put a large towel over the plastic or vinyl and carefully press with a barely warm iron. In reverse, this ought to take care of the cotton material without harming the vinyl. Just don't trouch the vinyl with the iron.

Dear Dorothy: When I make an avocado dip, I mash the pulp, then blend in all the ingredients except the mayonnaise. I spread it over the top and chill the dish. Just before serving I stir it all up. —Opal Campbell

Need furniture? Buy unpainted

In these days of rising prices, you may find it difficult to buy all the furniture you need.

If that is true, Extension specialists at the Pennsylvania State University suggest you consider unfinished wood products.

They say money can be saved by buying furniture which hasn't been painted, stained or lacquered. There are many companies manufacturing unfinished furniture and hundreds of unfinished items on the market.

Before you buy, compare what is available. Then make your decision after checking prices, construction quality, furniture stability and appearance.

Friday marks World Day of Prayer

On World Day of Prayer this Friday, Church Women United in Northwest Cook County and Lake County will conduct services for all area Christians, joining with millions of people in a chain of prayer spanning six continents.

This 89th celebration of World Day of Prayer will be observed in a thousand languages and dialects by Protestant, Orthodox, and Catholic Christians in 169 lands, with one worship service for all. Services will be held in six area locations.

The International Committee for the World Day of Prayer has designated Church Women United as the official sponsor of the World Day of Prayer in the United States. The International Committee chooses a theme and appoints a group of women from a different part of the world to write the worship materials for each year.

THEME FOR 1975 is "Become Perfectly One," a search for the meaning of Christian unity in the broader context of a pluralistic society. The worship service has been prepared by the Women's Ecumenical Prayer Fellowship of Egypt. Thousands of Christians who are outside the Orthodox tradition will be able to savor a service that includes elements fro a liturgy dating back to the early centuries of Christendom as well as elements born of the Arab experience of Protestantism and Catholicism.

World Day of Prayer includes participation in a nationwide offering which goes into a fund called Intercontinental Mission — the process by which Church Women United carries forward its stewardship through annual grants to agencies around the world in these five major concerns: higher education for women in overseas Christian colleges; preparation and distribution of Christian literature for women and children in Asia, Africa, and Latin America; education for minority women in new careers and for American Indian youth; ministries among migrant farm workers; support for the Christian ministry in national parks.

IN ADDITION, offerings make possible gifts to short-term projects to meet emerging opportunities and needs such as: reconstruction and rehabilitation services to women and children victimized by war; ecumenical ventures and international conferences for women; pilot projects in self-help programs for refugee women; day care centers; family planning, health and nutrition education and clinics.

Area services will be held at:

Magnus Farm, Arlington Heights, 1 p.m. with Dr. James P. Martin of First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights as speaker.

First Baptist Church of Palatine, 1 p.m., Dr. G. W. Schweer, speaker.

Our Redeemer United Methodist Church, Schaumburg, 1:30 p.m., Mrs. Draper Bishop, United Methodist Women District President, speaker.

Plum Grove Nursing Home, Palatine, 2:30 p.m. Rev. Petersen, of Northwest Covenant Church speaking.

First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights, 8 p.m., Rev. Arthur Wille of St. John's Church speaking.

Long Grove Community Church, 10 a.m., Rev. Steve Anderson of Washburn Church speaking.

THE HONORED GUEST, Rep. Virginia MacDonald, R-Arlington Heights, was in session in Springfield and wasn't present to receive the Woman of the Year from Wheeling Township Woman's Republican Club but the party went on anyway. New president, Mrs. Jan Hanson stands with Mrs. Carl Bloom, outgoing president, as Mrs. Paul Griffin helps Mrs. John Davis to register. The luncheon affair was held Thursday in Le Gourmet, where Mrs. Davis accepted the award for Mrs. MacDonald. Both Mrs. MacDonald and Mrs. Davis are charter members of the club.

Latin America hails 'Sesame Street'

Television in review
by Frank S. Swertlow

Today's column was written by UPI corresondent Carol Cook.

MEXICO CITY — Ahen Enrique talks to Beto, kids listen. Beto and Enrique are the "Sesame Street" muppets Bert and Ernie, speaking Spanish, of course, for the Latin American version of the show, "Plaza Sesamo."

Lately Beto and Enrique have been talking on posters and in television commercials about the Mexican Health Ministry's nationwide free vaccination campaign.

Hundreds of thousands of children are expected to go willingly to government clinics for measles and polio shots at least partly because Enrique and Beto said vaccination was a good thing. Such is the pressige of the Muppets, national favorites less than three years after "Plaza Sesamo" went on nationwide television in Mexico.

WHEN "PLAZA Sesamo" — the first foreign-language adaptation of "Sesame Street" — opened its second season on two networks Feb. 3, it had piled up ratings that only Mexico's popular soap operas could rival. "Plaza Sesamo's" first season in late 1972 had an average rating of 23 to 25 points in Mexico City and reached the unheard-of heights of 68 in one provincial city, Ciudad Ohregon.

"Even the third rerun of Plaza Sesamo One had ratings of 10, pretty good for the third time around, twice a day," said John Page, a master of seven languages and a former advertising executive who, when not producing "Plaza Sesamo," teaches Chinese at a prestigious graduate school.

The 260 half-hour programs that make up "Plaza Sesamo's" second season will be aired twice a day on two of the four channels of the Televisa network. Some 50 stations around the country will carry the show.

Each program of 25 short sequences follows the original "Sesame Street" model.

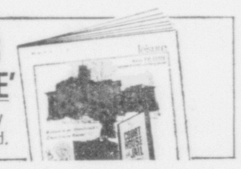

"PLAZA SESAMO" is being shown in 17 Latin American countries, including Puerto Rico. The only countries not showing it are Peru and Paraguay, Page said. Brazil has its own Portugeuse version, "Vila Sesamo."

This means a potential audience of 25million children. In Mexico alone, there are an estimated 7 million children between 3 and 6, "Plaza Sesamo's" target group.

Adapting "Sesame Street" for Latin American viewers meant first of all turning the street into a plaza that would be typical of a city block anywhere in Central or South America — with its backdrop of mountains, its center fountain, benches, vacant lot with playground equipment, houses, a combination grocery store-cafe and mechanic's repair shop.

Local schools funding tax system suit

Local school boards are contributing financial support to a lawsuit challenging the state's method of equalizing property assessments, which Cook County school districts contend is costing them millions of dollars each year in lost taxes.

The suit, filed last year by Evanston and New Trier township high school districts, asks that the Illinois Dept. of Local Government Affairs be ordered to end a freeze on the assessment multiplier.

The multiplier is used to equalize assessments among counties because of variations in assessing procedures.

The two school districts contend the state acted illegally in reducing the multiplier for Cook County from 1.59 to 1.48 and then freezing it in 1973. The move cost the two districts about $1.2 million in tax revenue, the schools contend.

The districts are asking that the state be required to use current market values of property in setting the multiplier, which would result in increased assessments and taxes for Cook County property owners.

MOST NORTHWEST suburban school districts also lost funds because of a decrease in the multiplier. East Maine Dist. 63 for example, lost an estimated $338,000 last year because of the reduced multiplier while Prospect Heights Dist. 63 lost about $90,000.

During discussion of a tax-equalizer bill last July, State Rep. Joseph Lundy, D-Chicago, said county school districts could lose up to $100 million each year because of the reduced multiplier.

Local districts contributing money to the lawsuit so far include Des Plaines Dist. 62, East Maine Dist. 63, Maine Township High School Dist. 207, and High School Dist. 214. Other boards plan to discuss support of the lawsuit at upcoming meetings.

New Trier Supt. Roderick Bickert said seven school districts have contributed $4,600 and about 40 others have asked for further information on the suit. "Quite a few districts said they plan to have a representative at the court hearing March 10," he said.

IN A LETTER to area school officials soliciting financial support for the suit, Bickert said the 1.48 multiplier creates "a hugh slash in the anticipated local revenue available to operate public schools and a political stranglehold on future income from local sources."

The lawsuit asks that Director Frank Kirk of the local government department, be restrained from freezing the multiplier arbitrarily. The suit also asks for a court order requiring Kirk to use property transfers from 1970-72 in determing the equalizer for 1974.

Kirk has asked for dismissal of the suit, saying the districts have not exhaused administrative remedies for appealing the multiplier. He also contends the districts are asking for jurisdiction over possible future action of his department.

The school districts said Kirk acted illegally in the past by arbitrarily freezing and reducing the multiplier and his actions indicate he will act illegally in the future.

Evanston and New Trief school officials have spent $20,000 on legal fees. They said they expect to spend at least $20,000 more.

Area Lions officials attend dedication rites

Past District Gov. and Mrs. Milton Tuttle of Des Plaines, Deputy District Gov. Clayton Meyer of Arlington Heights and Zone Chairman and Mrs. David Terrill of Long Grove were among those present Sunday when the newly organized Lions of Illinois Foundation was dedicated at the headquarters offices in Oak Park. The foundation was formed last year to coordinate the projects of Lions in a statewide effort.

Officiating at the ceremonies were State Rep. Henry Hyde, R-6th, and Foundation Pres. A. G. Marcheschi, Niles. Among the honored guests was Dr. Morton Goldberg, professor and head of the department of ophthalmology at the University of Illinois, Chicago. Goldberg was presented with a check to cover the balance due for a surgical microscope. Checks also were presented to Hadley School for the Blind, Winnetka; Leader Dogs for the Blind, Rochester, Mich., and Dialogue, Berwyn.

A new mobile glaucoma unit which will travel the state giving free glaucoma-screening was unveiled. The previous unit was responsible for uncovering 1,200 cases of glaucoma out of more than 250,000 screened.

Custodial care not covered

My mother is 84 years old. She's not really sick, but she's going into a nursing home because she has trouble getting around and taking care of herself. Will Medicare help pay for her care?

No. Care such as help in walking, dressing, bathing, and eating is called custodial care and is not covered under Medicare. Only continuing skilled nursing or rehabilitation services furnished in a skilled nursing facility can be covered by Medicare.

Intravenous not harmful

Can you tell us what determines the length of time a patient is kept on intravenous feeding following an operation? We hear now that many patients do not recover as quickly as they should or actually die from lack of nourishment due to extended use of this feeding by vein.

My husband is 73 and was operated on more than a year ago and was hospitalized for six weeks. He was fed intravenously for four weeks. He has never been able to think like he did before the operation and we wonder if some of his brain cells died due to lack of nourishment.

I may have to have surgery also and wish to avoid this but don't know what a patient can do about it or have any say in the matter. Our doctor has been fully satisfactory otherwise. Your ideas or suggestions would be appreciated.

The most common reason for continuing intravenous feeding is because the patient can't eat. Immediately after surgery that is usually because of the anesthetic. The patient may be nauseated and food or liquids may cause him or her to become nauseated and vomit. This isn't good if there is an incision.

In some cases, patients are not willing to eat enough and need supplemental feeding by vein.

Still other patients because of the nature of their surgery can't swallow well for some time after surgery and will need venous feedings.

Of course, if there is bleeding in the digestive tract, in the stomach, esophagus or intestines the patient is usually not permitted to take food by mouth. Recent surgery involving the digestive tract may also prolong the use of intravenous feedings.

Aside from these considerations, if the patient isn't so critical from some other medical problem he is usually returned to normal eating fairly soon after surgery.

EACH CASE IS individual, but you should not think of venous feedings as causing the problem. Rather, the venous feedings are used to help tide the patient over the underlying problem and are often lifesaving. Rather than causing your husband's condition, it is a good bet that they made it possible for him to survive. The whole complicated business of providing nourishment, minerals and fluids by veins is a real advance in medicine.

Your husband's loss of his former capacity to think is more likely related to his age plus his basic underlying medical problems. Patients often think that treatment causes a particular problem when, in fact, the underlying disease has progressed to the point that the complications arise about the time the doctor has to do something else to keep the patient going.

Your case may be entirely different from your husband's. If you do not have serious underlying disease and go through whatever surgery you have planned without complications, you could be eating shortly after surgery, without any prolonged use of venous feeding. Talk it over with your doctor, and he can tell you what you can expect.

Safety play brings in slam

Jim: "How about a week's articles on percentage and safety plays?"

Oswald: "They aren't exactly the same thing. For instance, here is a standard safety play. South finds himself in six notrump after a slightly irregular notrump opening. He might have reached six clubs, if he had opened one club or North might have played six notrump. It really doesn't matter. The principle involved is the same."

Jim: "South wants to lose just one club trick and he wants to give himself the best chance to do just that. He sees that he can't make the slam if West holds king-jack plus one or two small clubs. He wants to find a way to handle any other club combination."

Oswald: "The safety play here is to lay down his ace of clubs. This time he drops the king and has no trouble finessing against the jack and making all the tricks. If an honor failed to drop he would go over to dummy and lead the nine of clubs. This is a safety play against a guarded king-jack holding in the East hand."

Jim: "Had South bid seven he would have tried the best play for all the tricks, which is a first-round finesse of the queen. It would have failed miserably this time, but it still would have been the best play."

Gross brings home state wrestling honors

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

It took John Gross three years of outstanding wrestling to even reach the Illinois High School Association finals in Champaign.

Getting there turned out to be the toughest job though. In one of the more consistent and superior efforts turned in at a generally topsy-turvy tournament, the Forest View senior breezed to a 105-pound state championship in the University of Illinois Assembly Hall Saturday night.

Gross is the first individual at Forest View to win a boy's title in any sport. The best previous Falcon mat effort was turned in by Bob Savage in 1968 when he battled to a sixth place windup in the heavyweight division.

For Gross, most of the battling was to get down to the finals in the first place. For two straight years he was knocked out of the running in sectional 98-pound brackets. In three years he has lost a total of only nine varsity bouts.

A total of five area products finished in the money at the unpredictable Champaign showdown. Hersey's Mark Furlong came up with his second straight downstate effort, bettering a third place windup of a year ago by finishing second at 138 pounds this time.

Furlong was knocked off in the finals by three-time state qualifier King Mueller of Bolingbrook. Only a junior, the undefeated Mueller polished off Furlong 12-3.

Two other local entries finished with fifth place medals but both probably deserved an even better fate. Defending state champ Rick Morris of Elk Grove dropped a last-second toughie to Ray Conrad of East Leyden in the quarterfinals at 132 and Huskie Eric Strutz was eased out in opening round 145-pound action by Dave Foore of Aurora West.

Both rallied in the wrestlebacks but were prevented from going back up into the third-place consolation bouts when the grapplers they lost to were also defeated. Conrad and Foore took byes into the third-place faceoffs.

Morris won four matches in awesome fashion, claiming three superior decisions and scoring no less than 15 points in any of them. For the tourney he piled up 73 match points in five outings.

Strutz came back with three straight triumphs in the wrestlebacks and toppled Rick Mariani of Bloomington 8-2 in the consolation bout for fifth place.

The area's only other place earner was Brad Bonnivier of Maine West at 132. He fell in his opener but came back with wins over Ryan Bianchi of Pekin and Willie Perry of Springfield Lamphier in the wrestlebacks before hooking up with Morris and losing 17-6.

Gross turned back a favored Willie Staples of Proviso East in the finals 5-4, rebounding from a first period deficit in one of Saturday evening's more exciting bouts. Staples, who had won all 32 of his previous bouts this season, went up 4-0 in the first round on a take down and a couple of back points.

Gross went up for the second round and eventually worked up a cradle that netted him three points. In the final period he reversed Staples in the closing moments for the nod.

It was his 34th triumph in 35 matches this year and upped his three year slate to a dazzling 85-9-1.

Furlong, who had gone into overtime to knock off Deerfield's Dru Meshes 8-6 in the semifinals, trailed Mueller all the way in the championship struggle. The Bolingbrook vet went up 4-0 early on a take down and near fall, picked up two more points in the second round and wound up with a six-point flurry in the last stanza.

Furlong managed only one escape in each of the three periods.

Some of the other finals matches were far from showcase affairs. The 167-pound showdown was the poorest mismatch, with Bloom's Bob Fleming pounding out a 21-4 verdict. The 98-pound title fight produced little action with Bloom's Keith Hurlbut recording a 1-0 decision.

Joliet East's John Gurka was the only repeater, copping his second straight heavyweight title. The expected masterpiece at 126 went flat when Moline's Kevin Puebla dominated DeKalb's Al Sullivan 7-2.

Other individual winners were Romeoville's Fred Herrin at 112 and Mike Abney at 119, Joliet Central's Scott Trizzino at 132, Russ Zintak of Evergreen Park at 145, Dan Fiorini of Rock Falls at 155, and New Trier East's Rick Blickert at 185.

Bloom and Richards shared the class AA team title with 33 points each, East Leyden placing third half a point away. Hersey wound up in a tie with Proviso East for 13th place and Forest View knotted in 18th place.

Black Hawks falter

Gregg Sheppard netted two goals, one in a four-goal third period Sunday, as the Boston Bruins outskated the Chicago Black Hawks, 6-2, in a nationally-televised National Hockey League game. Wayne Cashman got the game-winner and first goal of the final-period spree to break a close-checking 2-2 tie at 7:47.

Just over 1:30 later, Terry O'Reilly stroked a 20-footer past Chicago goalie Tony Esposito and Sheppard followed with his second goal almost five minutes later. Dave Forbes finished the outburst at 15:00. Sheppard gave Boston a 2-0 lead at 8:10 of the second period on a 15-foot power play shot to the left of Tony Esposito. Pit Martin closed the gap at 13:28 of the middle frame and Stan Mikita knotted the score 5:22 into the third period from 15 feet out.

Murphy's super shot wins tourney

A spectacular eight-iron shot on the 17th hole lifted Bob Murphy to the $52,000 first prize in the Jackie Gleason Inverrary Golf Classic Sunday in Lauderhill, Fla. Murphy's clutch approach landed on the fringe of the green and "could have bounced anywhere."

Instead, it rolled to the lip of the cup for a tap-in birdie that clinched the first title for the pudgy veteran pro after five years of frustration. Murphy's four-under-par 68 held off young Eddie Pearce, who finished second, and Jack Nicklaus, who was the leader going into the final round but wound up third.

Only 2 miss Cubs' 1st workout

Manny Trillo was the only Chicago Cubs player who failed to report and Chris Ward remained the only unsigned Cub as a squad of 39 began full scale workouts Sunday in Scottsdale, Ariz. Trillo, who's expected to report today, will take over the second base job of Vic Harris, who's been moved to the outfield.

Yarborough captures Carolina 500

Cale Yarborough breezed to victory in the Carolina 500 stock car race Sunday in Rockingham, N. C. as wrecks and mechanical failures knocked most of the other top drivers out of contention.

The victory, which gave the Timmonnsville, S.C., driver $14,200, was Yarborough's first at a super speedway since last year's Labor Day race at Darlington, S. C.

2 Yanks take titles, Aussies win

Two Americans captured WCT titles and Australia advanced in the Davis Cup to highlight worldwide tennis action Sunday. Dick Stockton of Dallas beat Stan Smith on the eighth match point to take the $12,000 first prize in the San Antonio Classic. Meanwhile, Arthur Ashe collected the same amount by knocking off Tom Okker in Rotterdam, Netherlands.

On the other side of the world, Australia wrapped a 4-0 victory over hosting New Zealand to take the Eastern Zone final of the cup playoffs. John Newcombe was scheduled to play the final match for the Aussies, but withdrew and another replaced him. "After this how can he criticize Jimmy Connors for not turning up to matches," said New Zealand's Onny Parun. "I came a long way to play him and he pulled out."

Frazier uses both muscle, mouth

Former world heavyweight boxing champion Joe Frazier had hardly finished disposing of Jimmy Ellis on a ninth-round technical knockout in Melbourne, Australia Sunday before he began his pitch for another fight with Muhammad Ali, the current champion. "I want to fight him (Ali) right now, if I can get him," Frazier said. "But he's like a dog with his tail between his legs, ashamed and afraid."

St. Viator's Rohl gives area top swim spot with sixth in 100 free

by MIKE KLEIN
Swimming Editor

There's no doubt some Illinois coaches and swimmers resent Don Watson whose Hinsdale Central Red Devils always win the state team championship. None of these people, however, are Dan Griebel or Paul Sigfusson.

The Devilish ones eclipsed their 1971 state record with 307 points for a ninth straight team title and 10th overall Saturday at New Trier East. Runner-up was Fenwick at 86.

Griebel (formerly of Fenwick) and Sigfusson (formerly of Prospect) provided a great measure of that success. They swam in five winning performances and Griebel contributed to three state records.

"Any regrets!! That's never occurred to me, not even once," Griebel responded to a question about his controversial move from Fenwick to Hinsdale this season.

"Our coach (Bob Groseth at Fenwick) quit last year. I decided it was to my advantage to swim at Hinsdale for coach Watson."

Saturday, Griebel established a new Illinois prep record in 200 freestyle while missing Mark Spitz's national mark by two-tenths, then bettered his own 500 freestyle record set in preliminaries and swam on Hinsdale's 400 free relay team, unofficially the nation's quickest.

Sigfusson came to Hinsdale three years ago, "after my mother passed away." That transfer raised some local ire because the Mid-Suburban League lost a potential state champion.

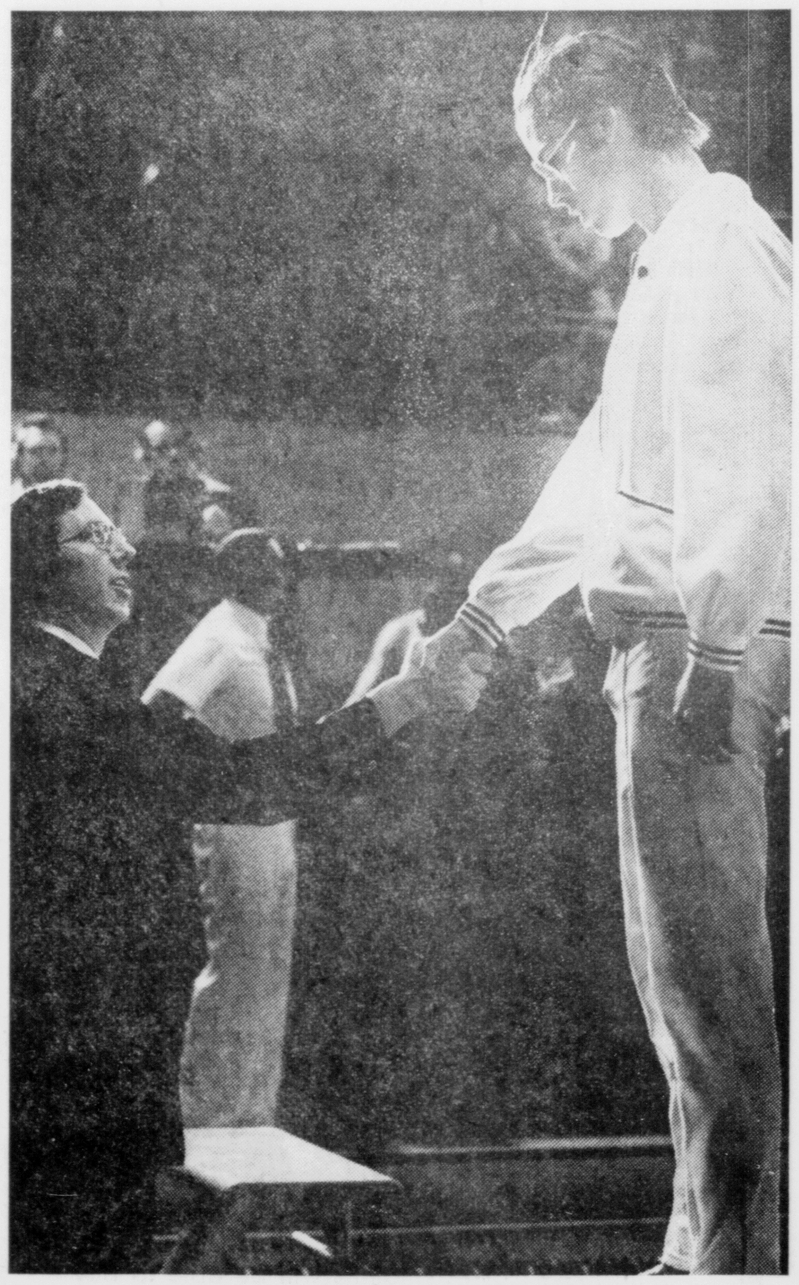

And that's exactly what Sigfusson became, a state champ, when he took the backstroke title by 1.9 seconds over teammate Andy Seibt. Sigfusson also swam on Hinsdale's winning medley relay.

"It's been a great opportunity for me," said Sigfusson. "We have success because of the way he (Watson) runs the program. If you do anything halfway, it doesn't get done right."

St. Viator's Mark Rohl placed sixth in 100 freestyle to lead area swimmers. The Lion sophomore swam 48.8, four-tenths off his preliminary time. Rohl earned ninth in the event last year.

Elk Grove gymnasts second

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Gymnastics Editor

The Niles West Indians picked up assorted hardware, most of it by Bart Conner, and the championship trophy in their own gymnastics sectional Saturday.

Trailing Elk Grove by a single point at the end of the first three events the Indians poured it on in the evening session to win convincingly 88 to 67.26 over the runnerup Grenadiers.

Niles East finished third in the team standings with 4826 while Prospect took fourth at 46.5 Maine South completed the top five teams with 31 points.

The whole sectional was just so much showcase for Conner, the state's defending all-around champion. He had little trouble in taking this year's addition of the sectional tournament all-around title with a total of 44.80 points for an 8.96 average.

Conner will defend his state title at Prospect this weekend.

Neal Sher, of Niles East was runner up in the all-around competition with an average of 8.47. Matt Damore, of Elk Grove, placed fourth with an 8.00 mark.

Elk Grove's free ex squad was led by Damore, tumbling out of the 26th slot to finish fourth with a score of 8.30.

Gene Christensen threw his routine to the tune of 7.70 but did not break into the top ten.

Mike Schmidt of Evanston took third on the mats with an 8.55 and Prospect's Doug Zahour took second with a mark of 8.60.

Schmidt had held the lead for several competitors until Zahour, with only two men to compete after him, hit his mark to claim the top spot.

However, one of the two followers was Bart Conner and the Niles West ace wasted no time in walking off with his first event title of the sectional with a 9.15 judging.

Competing in free ex but not placing in the top 10 were David Glaser of Elk Grove who scored 5.65 and Russ Klingaman and Doug Krebs of Prospect who scored 6.65 and 7.90 respectively.

Forest View's John Scola, the 21st competitor on the free ex, recorded a 7.90 to hold the lead until Ron Deutsch of Niles North scored an 8.10 right after him.

Bart Conner left some scraps around for the rest of the field on the side horse as his 8.35 score put him in an early tie for the lead with Maine South's Bob Lemay.

However, Prospect's Dan Bartlett soon followed with an 8.50 that held the lead momentarily and was eventually good for fourth place.

Tim Connelly of Elk Grove topped Bartlett's mark wih an 8.90 routine to pick up a sectional title to go along with the district championship he won last week.

Mike Burke of Niles East placed third at 8.70 and Glenbrook South's Brian Carey, the last competitor of the event, came in second, just .05 of a point behind Connelly.

Matt Damore had a 6.30 and the early lead but finished out of the top ten. Gene Christensen (4.0) and Dave Glaser (4.20) rounded out the Grens' side horse field.

Russ Klingaman marked 3.95 for Prospect while Dave Schieble was judged at 7.55 and Rich Savage at 7.10.

Scores started to soar on high bar, the final event of the afternoon session, and none soared higher than Conner's. His 9.30 mark was more than enough for his second event title and gave him a healthy push toward taking the all-around championship as well.

Mike Schmidt, of Evanston, scored an 8.15 as the 25th man in the event and held the lead at the time. But the scores to come were so high that Schmidt ultimately finished out of the top ten.

Matt Damore hit his dismount perfectly for an 8.70 score and held the lead until Niles East's Neal Sher took that away with an 8.90.

Grenadier Tom Balla came through with an 8.50 score that put him in a tie for sixth place with Craig Martin, of Maine South.

Prospect's Doug Zahour finished in fifth place as his routine was scored at 8.60.

Gene Christensen, the last gymnast to work the high bar and the afternoon session, scored an 8.85 and placed third.

Elk Grove paced the field at the halfway point of the meet with 37.5 points. Niles West was right on their tail at 36.5.

The trampoline belonged to Brewster McFarland of New Trier West with an 8.95 average. Scott Harriett of Elk Grove took a fifth place medal home for his 8.20 effort.

Bob Walsh, of Forest View, canned a 6.55. Doug Zahour a 7.30.

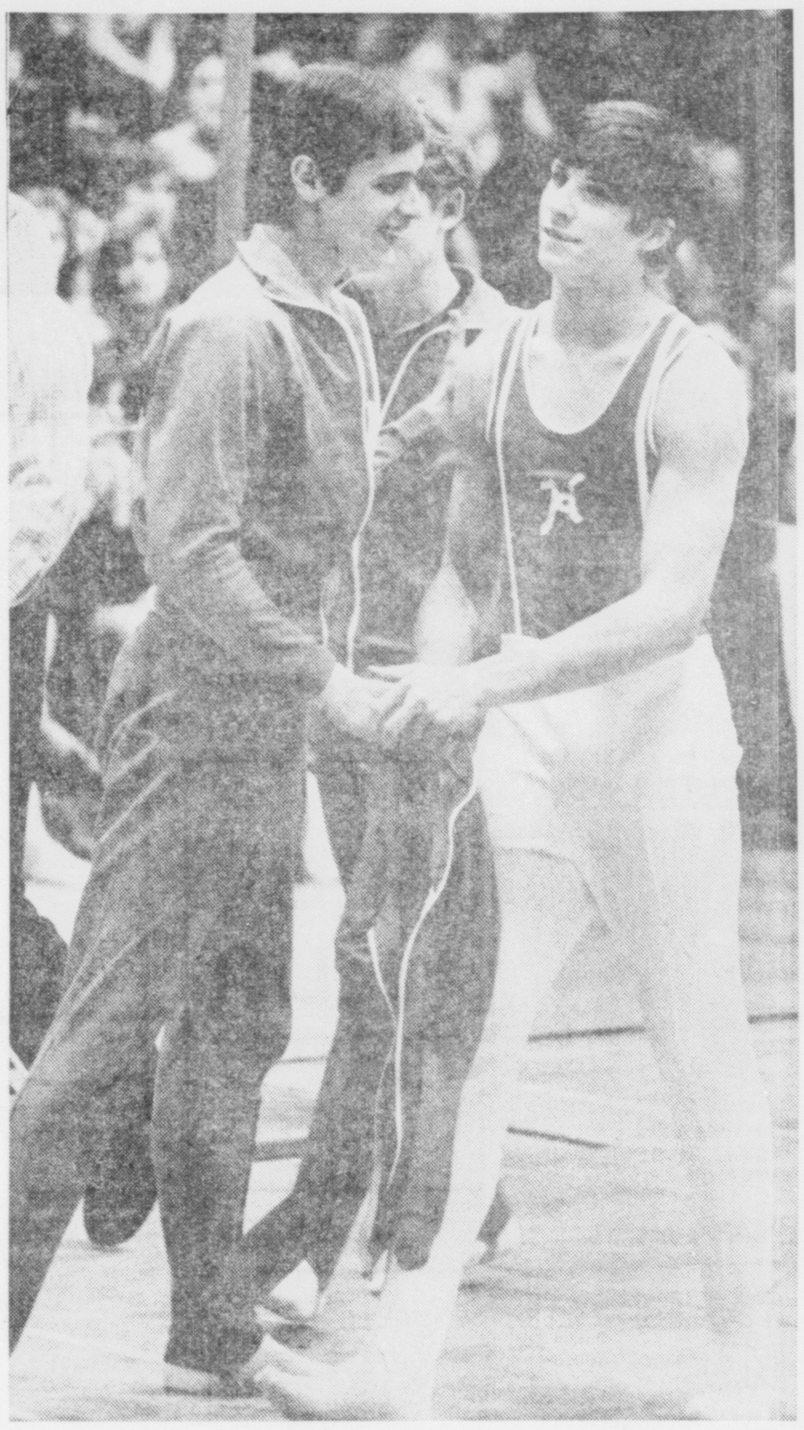

Conner had something special planned for his set on the P-Bars. Perhaps tiring of merely winning event championships he set a new national record of 9.60 to boot.

Sher was second at 9.20 while Gene Christensen and Prospect's Kurt Cederberg, tied for fourth at 8.70. Elk Grove's Jim Schwartz tied Damore for seventh position with an 8.55 score.

Glen Wilke of Prospect performed on the rings in the 38th slot and threw an 8.55 for the lead. But there were some pretty good ring men to come, including Conner.

Conner could only pull off an 8.40 though, and Wilke's mark held up for the championship.

The rings really hurt the Grens though as they could fit no one into the top ten. Damore's 8.15 was the best of the team and missed by a fraction as three gymnasts tied for ninth at 8.20.

Going to the cats... quite an experience

The idle cat fancier was out of his territory at the Lincoln State Cat Club's 15th annual show at Arlington Park.

I mean, I like cats (instead of imagining names for future children I imagine names for future cats) but I wouldn't consign someone to eternal damnation if they mistakenly harmed one.

A sign posted over a cage of Birmans indicated somebody would:

"Woe to anyone who even unwittingly puts an end to one of these worshipped cats. The worst punishment will be in store for him and his guilty tortured soul will find no rest for the whole of eternity."

Above which was a sign that, with the warning of eternal unrest, said it all about the cat show.

"This show is deodorized by Duall Products."

The people from Dualle were just one of seemingly hundreds of corporations and independent businessmen on hand to cash in on, judging from the long lines of ticket buyers and paw to paw crush of people, a fanatacism for cats that is both understandable and stunning all at once.

One gentelman and his assistant sold jewelry peacefully off in the corner without attempting to cash in on the theme of the show. Aside from them, all commerce played heavily on the ultimate comfort of both owner and pet.

There were cat candles, cat necklaces, cat pictures, cat candys, cat bumper stickers ("Pussy Power — I like cats"), cat combs, cat brushes, catnip (both 100 per cent pure and old-fashioned, the distinction escapes me) and cat mats which looked like bath mats with zippers in the side to deposit a hit of catnip to keep the cat interested in the mat.

And to keep your cats healthy and you happy there were more vitamins that Bobby Riggs knew existed, Petromalt for the elimination of hair balls, cat canteens so your pet won't get thirsty on long trips, Pussy-Graze so even in winter your cat will have some therapeutic grass to munch on and a concentrated deodorizer which will kill the odor of a skunk with just three drops.

The breeders came from everywhere across the midwest for this show, dispensing business cards with the name of their cattery emobossed on them and hanging signs that said, "Keep your fingers out of the cage. My owner bites."

Almost universally, they were friendly and liked nothing better than talking about their cats.

One exhibitor from Cincinnati remarked:

"I have a sign on the back of my car that says, 'Don't tailgate! Purebred cats aboard.' A big truck hung on my rear end for miles. I could've screamed."

Another bemoaned the size of the crowd.

"Just look at all these people," she cried. "I have to take Valerie up to the judging tables. What if somebody touches her?"

Contact with the cats was the ultimate sin. Small children poking tentative fingers at the cages had their hands slapped unceremoniously away by the owners.

"These purebreds are extremely vulnerable to infection," said Mary Jo Mersol, who runs her own cattery in Poland, Ohio. "All the judges disinfect their hands after they handle a cat and the really finicky owners just cringe when they see people off the street bending over to breath on their babies."

Several of the exhibitors had draped clear plastic coverings over the cage and kept an arsenal of boric acid and flea and grooming powder close at hand. The standard manner of transporting a pure bred from the cage to the judging stands was to carry it high over the owner's head, hopefully out of range of the sea of bacteria boiling below.

The actual judging was very esoteric and wasn't aided by the mumbling commentary coming over the public address system. Not nearly as cut and dried as dog show judging, cats earn their awards with alertness, good eye color for their breed, coat texture and color.

But, I suspect, unless you're an avid follower of cat judging and have a cat entered the suspense probably peaks at the level of a high school awards banquet.

The objects of all this worship, except to occasionally sniff one of their trophies or bat at one of the long feathers the judges used to determine alertness, just looked bored.

With cats there is always the feeling they are chuckling behind their whiskers and putting up with names like Mata-Blue Love Bug of Nebtegot simply because they know they've got it made. Humans, so fragilely dependent, have foisted their insecurities off on their pets and in cats they have chosen the most unlikely of subjects.

Perhaps it is the arrogant independence of cats, in comparison to the mawkish, unquestioning love of dogs, that moves people to smother them with love and catnip in the hopes of bringing their cats' dependency level up to their own.

That's my theory. If I ever find an apartment that allows cats I'm going to get a couple and try it out.

Hinsdale (ho-hum) cops another swimming title candidate over the next two seasons. Four-of-six men who reached finals this year are seniors including Scott Dick and Vin Perella from Hinsdale Central who went one-two.

Next year, Rohl's top competition should include Moline's Dave Johnson, fourth on Saturday. He's a junior. Others to watch will be New Trier East sophomoe Julian Mack and Rockford-Guilford junior Mike Behr, ninth and seventh this year.

St. Viator scored 11 points for 22nd place, best finish by an area school. Rohl contributed nine and Mark Nelles added two with 11th place in backstroke.

Arlington's Joe Nitch swam his fastest time all season, a 4:47.2, to place eighth in 500 freestyle consolation. He lost seventh to Lyons' Randy Demke by two-tenths.

Had Nitch swum that fast Friday evening, he would have displaced Thornwood's Dan Hanson and reached finals. With only Nitch's five points, Arlington placed 28th.

Hersey placed 27th with six points. Chris Tague scored five with 10th place in 200 free and 11th in 500. Jeff Speakman added the other point with 12th in diving.

Both of Tague's clockings were slower than he recorded in Friday evening preliminaries. His 1:48.2 added six-tenths in 200 free and Tague's 4:52.2 was 1.3 seconds higher in 500 free.

All of Prospect's four points, for 31st place in team scoring came from Chris Prinslow's ninth in backstroke.

Much as it gets repetitive, you can't talk about Hinsdale's work without praising Griebel. Sigfusson offered one point that could be forgotten about Griebel's work Saturay. "His split on the freestyle relay was unbelievable, a 45.9," said Sigfusson.

That's how fast Griebel covered the final 100 yards as Hinsdale broke the Illinois record with 3:07.5. Griebel would have been an easy winner and set a new statemark by one full second had he swom 100 freestyle.

"I'd like to say we'll go faster but I don't know if we can," Griebel said about the freestyle relay. They'll get a chance this weekend when Hinsdale hosts A.A.U. championship Friday-to-Sunday.

And yet another opportunity will arise for Hinsdale at the April 9-12 national high school finals in Cincinnati.

Griebel hopes to clip his 1:40.7 state record in 200 free, a clocking just two-tenths slower than Mark Spitz's national record set seven years ago for Santa Clara (Calif.) High School.

Hinsdale's team victory was Watson's ninth, tying him with New Trier East's Dave Robertson for all-time Illinois leadersip. The Devils won their first title, in 1963, under Jerry Farmer.

Aside from an all-time leading 15 state championships, New Trier East has been the runner-up in 17 years, way ahead of Evanston's nine. New Trier finished third Saturday, 79 points.

St. Viator's Rohl is joined by at least two swimmers who promise to score well next year. Carbondale junior Chris Phillips, a virtual unknown, placed fourth in 200 free and third in 500.

He's already at 4:43.9 in 500 free and might threaten Griebel's state record next year.

Another to watch is George Tidmarch, third in breaststroke on Saturday. Tidmarch is the best of Hinsdale's freshman. And Watson says they might be the finest group he's ever had.

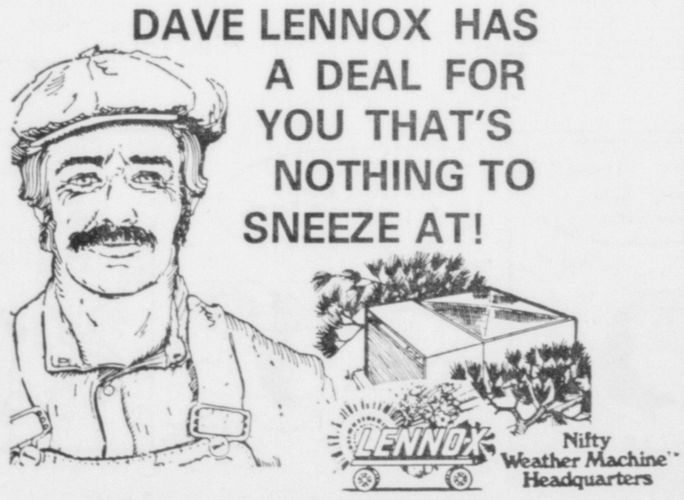

The call goes out: Who'd like to finish second next year?

Saturday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
